Sander tells citizens' group

Basin's drain problems to be eliminated by fall

Drainage problems in the Wilke-Kirchoff water retention basin should be cleared up by the end of the summer, Village Engineer Allen Sander said.

Sander Tuesday night told the Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding that the soggy conditions in the south end of the basin have been caused by faulty construction.

"The south end was not built according to plans. But since the inspection was done by the MSD (Metropolitan Sanitary District), complaining won't do any good," Sander said.

The basin does not drain well in spots because of a clay covering over the underground drainage system, he said.

SOME DRAINS have been opened and village employes from the public works department are continuing to remove the clay bottom. Granular stone will be added to improve the drainage, Sander said.

"We also need to intercept the water in the south bank and send it into the underdrain system, and put in some additional underdrains," Sander said.

The amount of clay that will need to be removed has not been determined, so no cost estimate for the work is available.

Thomas Thornton, Arlington Heights Park District director, said the drainage problems at the basin are "not major," but he admitted that they have caused the construction of a third baseball diamond in the basin to be delayed.

PLUGGING AWAY with the Spirit of '76, an Arlington Heights fire hydrant gets a patriotic coat of red, white and blue paint for the Bicentennial. Applying the masters' touch are Andy Walton, Mike Eichten and Greg Walton. Registration is being taken for other plug painters at the village hall, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd., and the Memorial Library, 500 N. Dunton Ave.

Dist. 214 top aides get 5.1% raise

Top level administrators in High School Dist. 214 received salary increases averaging 5.1 per cent for the 1976-77 school year.

The school board approved the salary increases Monday. The board in March had approved a $500 salary increase for Supt. Edward Gilbert, from $44,500 to $45,000.

Administrators receiving increases are Roderick McLennan, associate superintendent for instructional services, to $37,200; Robert Weber, associate superintendent for business services, to $37,200; and William Warner, assistant to the superintendent, to $25,600.

District coordinators receiving increases are Marvin Christensen, to $28,500; Warren Collier, to $31,300; Edward Fischer, to $31,175; Richard Kinneman, to $30,230; Charles Miller, to $31,300; William Reid, to $31,150; Alfred Snap, to $31,175; and W. David Whiteside, to $31,450.

OTHER ADMINISTRATORS' salaries are Robert Cudney, assistant superintendent of personnel services, $34,000; John Fish, coordinator of continuing education, $29,525; Lawrence Jenness, coordinator of alternative education, $31,450; Regina Woolsoncroft, director of food services, $28,150; and Thomas Cosgrove, director of physical plants, $28,150.

Principals receiving increases are Bruno Waara, Arlington High School to $36,200; Clarence Miller, to $34,600; Donald Ring, Elk Grove High School, to $33,800; Jack Martin, Forest View High School, to $34,300; and Roland Goins, Hersey High School, to $36,100.

Other principals' salaries are Edward Spacapan, Prospect High School, $34,500; Robert Hoese, Rolling Meadows High School, $35,600; and Thomas Shirley, Wheeling High School, $36,200.

Police to teach driving, motorcycle safety class

Defensive driving and motorcycle safety courses will be offered to Arlington Heights residents in July.

The classes will be taught by police officers Ronald McClaskey and Gene Mertlick, who have been trained by the National Safety Council.

"The course should help people to be better able to handle their cars in safer numbers. Hopefully, it will help to reduce the number and severity of accidents in Arlington Heights," Sgt. Jack Weber said.

TWO CLASSES limited to 25 students each will be formed on a first-come, first-serve basis. One class will meet on four consecutive Tuesdays beginning July 13 and the other class will meet Thursdays beginning July 15. The classes will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. in the basement of the village hall, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Persons registering for the classes must be residents of Arlington Heights and have valid drivers licenses.

Students who attend all four two-hour sessions will be awarded safety certificates.

The defensive driving and motorcycle safety courses will be classroom instruction, Weber said.

THE DEFENSIVE driving course is designed to teach drivers how to avoid accidents despite incorrect actions by other motorists or adverse driving conditions, McClaskey said.

The course will consist of lectures, films and discussion, he said.

The course also could prove financially beneficial to persons who have insurance with one of the 15 insurance companies which give discounts to drivers who have completed the course, McClaskey said.

The supplementary motorcycle safety course will be taught in four half-hour sessions immediately following the defensive driving classes. All persons wishing to take the motorcycle course must have graduated from a defensive driving course or be in the process of doing so.

THE MOTORCYCLE safety course will discuss the effects passengers have on balance, acceleration and braking, as well as the safe way to carry parcels and safety maintenance.

To register for the defensive driving or motorcycle safety courses, residents should call Sgt. J. David Crittenden, 253-2340, ext. 305, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Early registration is suggested because of the limited class size.

Man's condition fair after 2-car accident

A 25-year-old Palatine man suffered internal injuries Tuesday morning in a two-car crash at Central Road and Arthur Avenue, police said.

Police said Thomas P. Varde, 950 Countryside, was injured about 10:20 a.m. Tuesday after he drove on to Central Road from Arthur Avenue and failed to yield the right-of-way to a westbound car driven by Edmund B. Kessler, 57, of 920 S. Dunton St., Arlington Heights.

Kessler's car reportedly struck Varde's broadside.

Varde was taken by Arlington Heights firefighters to Northwest Community Hospital, where he was reported in fair condition Tuesday night. He was ticketed for failure to yield.

To cost suburban schools $3 million

House OKs school aid funds bill

A state aid school funding bill, which will cost local suburban school districts $3 million, was passed by the Illinois House Tuesday along with a $1.287 billion measure to pay for it and was sent to the governor for approval.

The legislation, which was extensively amended by the Illinois Senate from the original bill sponsored by State Rep. Aaron Jaffee, D-Skokie, passed in the house on a 115-54 vote.

State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, R-Arlington Heights, said "it certainly handicaps eight out of every nine districts in this legislative district. Almost every suburban school district is going to suffer."

ACCORDING TO statistics released by the Illinois Office of Education, Northwest suburban school districts could lose nearly $3 million in state aid if Gov. Daniel Walker approves the bill.

Walker recommended that $1.262 billion be spent on general state aid to grade schools and high schools.

Senate Republicans warned Walker will chop the $22 million out of the school aid budget on grounds the state's perilous fiscal condition won't allow it.

However, Jaffee said during debate on the formula revision bill that Walker aides tell him the $1.287 billion appropriation is one he will consider signing.

JAFFE SAID his bill would help all school districts by providing:

- A $30 million break for Chicago schools. The city's system is subject to a $55 million penalty for closing early but would pay only $25 million under the bill.
- That suburban districts, generally wealthy, would no longer lose state aid if they taxed themselves more heavily than state law allows. The tax ceiling was designed to prevent rich districts from providing far better schools than poorer areas can afford.
- That largely rural downstate districts would now be permitted to count transportation costs as part of their local taxing effort in computing state aid to which they're entitled.

THE BILL was criticized by suburban lawmakers because the minimum at which unit districts must tax to get maximum state aid drops from $3 per $100 of assessed valuation to $2.90. For elementary schools, it drops from $1.95 to $1.90 per $100 assessed valuation.

The minimum tax rate provisions would aid Downstate districts where most of the state's unit districts are located and where tax rates have generally been lower than the state minimum needed to get maximum aid.

Suburban lawmakers argue that unit districts will be able to get a bigger share of state aid at the expense of suburban districts because of the lower minimum tax rate.

CB radio thieves take transceivers

Thieves seeking Citizens' Band radios struck cars at Arlington Park, taking transceivers valued at more than $500.

Police said thieves Sunday night and Monday afternoon stole CB radios from cars in the Arlington Park Race Track and Arlington Park Hilton parking lots. Victims are Allen D. South, of Deerfield; Dominick Pizzuto, of Glendale Heights; and John T. Fleming Jr., of Calumet City.

Thieves, meanwhile, broke into an auto owned by the manager of a car repair shop ans stole auto parts valued at $695 total, police said.

Thieves broke into a car owned by Ralph W. Kanehl Jr., 22, of Arlington Heights and manager of the Car X Muffler Shop at 715 E. Rand Rd. in the village police said.

Police said thieves cracked a rear window and unlocked the driver's door of Kanehl's car, which was parked at the Car X shop, between 10:30 p.m. Monday and 8:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Taken from the passenger and engine compartments of the auto were a transmission, two carburetors, valve covers, an air cleaner and filter, a manifold and a shifter unit for the transmission, police said.

Carter vows 'a job for every American'

by United Press International

Jimmy Carter, pledging to put top priority on "a job for every American," Tuesday told the nation's mayors in Milwaukee he would initiate urban public work programs that resemble the steps taken by Franklin Roosevelt to rescue rural areas.

"For eight years our cities and their people and their elected officials have too often been viewed by the White House as adversaries and used as political whipping boys," Carter said in a speech to the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

"I pledge to you an urban policy based on a new coalition — recognizing that the president, governors and mayors represent the same urban constituency."

But the former Georgia governor warned that "federal tax funds should not fund local waste."

"We must get the money and the services to the people who need them and not just to the communities that happen to be most skilled in the art of grantsmanship," he said.

Carter, the prospective Democratic presidential nominee, was on an eight-city fundraising swing to pay off his primary campaign debts and build a convention expense fund.

He met privately with three mayors who shuttled in and out of his hotel room, one after the other. First was Thomas Bradley of Los Angeles, then Richard J. Daley of Chicago, and finally Paul Jordan of Jersey City, N.J.

In his speech, Carter did not use the term "New Deal," but cited Roosevelt's Civilian Conservation Corps and Works Progress Administration as examples of federal programs that fought the Depression.

He said a similar concerted federal effort could work against a "vicious cycle" of downtown areas having the greatest need and the poorest people.

Carter said, "Like some of you, I remember the impact of the CCC and WPA in the 1930s, and I think similar initiatives are called for today, but with stress on urban rather than rural works projects, and with maximum possible local control over those projects.

"The first thing we need is jobs, a job for every American who wants one."

He said federal full employment efforts "must be supplemented by fiscal assistance and in particular by an improved program of revenue sharing."

Republican National Chairman Mary Louise Smith preceded Carter at the meeting and said, "The Democrats are on the brink of nominating a man who asks America to accept him on faith alone — and that is a pretty tall order, coming from someone who wants to be president."

Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss responded, "Jimmy

Homemade bomb injures boy, 15

A 15-year-old Palatine boy almost lost his left eye Tuesday afternoon when a pipe bomb he was putting together exploded, firefighters reported. Roy Olson reportedly had stuffed the tips of matches into a pipe and was pounding down a bolt to cap the device when the matches exploded. The three-eighths-inch bolt was imbedded almost one-half inch deep just above the youth's left eye, firefighters said. Firefighters transported Olson to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, where the bolt was removed. Olson was reported in fair condition in the hospital's intensive care section late Tuesday.

Recover probe costs: Kenna

An Elk Grove Village trustee has proposed the village consider suing whoever is convicted of killing three members of the Columbo family in order to recover costs of the murder investigation. Trustee Edward Kenna has suggested the village investigate if it can file a civil suit to recover the expenses which have cost the village an estimated $14,000. Frank Columbo, 43, his wife Mary, 40, and their son Michael, 13, were found May 7, stabbed, bludgeoned and shot to death in their home, 55 E. Brantwood Ave. The surviving member of the family, Patricia Columbo, 20, has been charged with the murders. Kenna said the village could recover the money from the Columbo estate if its civil suit was successful and added the village consider attempting to recover costs of criminal investigations in the village. Meanwhile, Criminal Court Judge Philip Romiti Tuesday said he will wait until July 16 before ruling on a request by Miss Columbo's attorneys that she be given a preliminary hearing to determine if there is probable cause that she stand trial for the murders. Assistant State's Atty. Algis Baliunas, however, argued probable cause was determined when Miss Columbo was indicted June 2 by a grand jury.

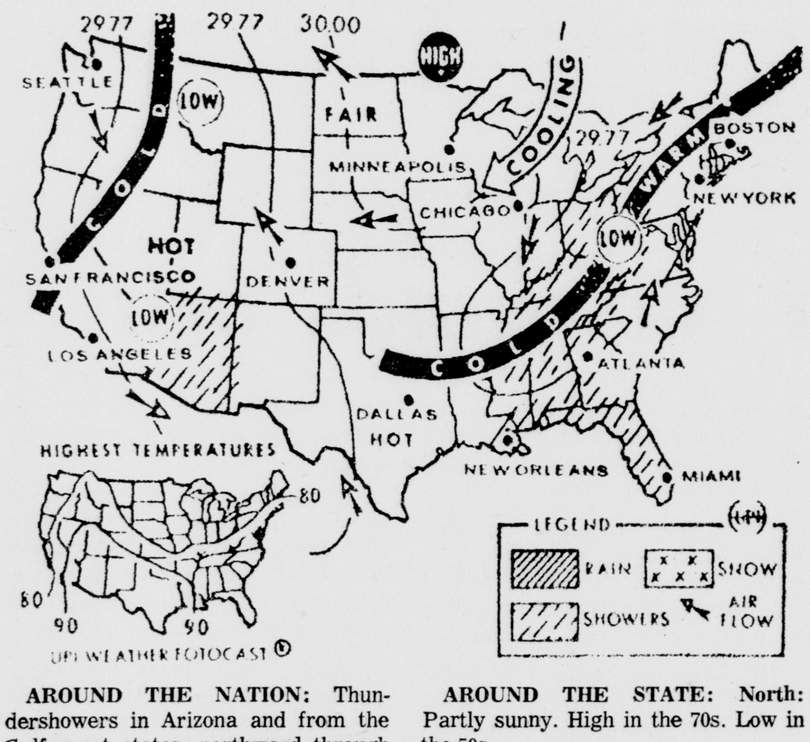

Vehicle sticker crackdown urged

Hoffman Estates has joined the growing list of Northwest suburbs considering using computers to crack down on residents who fail to purchase village vehicle stickers. Trustee William Cowin, finance committee chairman, says he favors hiring a professional computer firm to cross-check state drivers licenses of village residents to determine if they have purchased stickers. Cowin said the computer check would cost about $1,000 "which is only 100 licenses (at $10 per sticker). Our recover should be in excess of that." Palatine officials are considering a similar move. Mount Prospect officials, who have operated a computer check for two years, say it has been successful with the village collecting more than enough to pay for the service.

Indictment returned

A Cook County grand jury Tuesday indicted Marc Hadesman, 19, of Skokie, for shooting a woman with an electronic "stun-gun" device in April during a robbery. Hadesman, 3753 W. Enfield Ave., was indicted for armed robbery, aggravated battery and unlawful use of a weapon. The victim, Edna Blaum, 50, of Miami, Fla., was hospitalized for a few days after the robbery that took place at the Marriott Hotel, 8535 W. Higgins Rd., Chicago April 14. Hadesman is free on $5,000 bond pending a court appearance.

Funds shutoff threatened

Showdown today on RTA chief

by LYNN ASINOF

The Regional Transportation Authority today ends its fiscal year with a massive public transportation crisis looming on the horizon.

The four suburban RTA directors say they will make good their threat today to block passage of the $178.3 million 1976-77 budget unless Chairman Milton Pikarsky resigns.

This will stop the flow of essential RTA monies to suburban bus carriers, the Chicago Transit Authority and several commuter railroads. Spokesmen for some suburban bus lines have said they will be forced to shut down in a matter of days without RTA funds.

THE SUBURBAN directors Tuesday said they are aware of the impact their actions will have on the region. They said, however, they will not allow the agency to continue under Pikarsky's leadership, charging he is an inept administrator and a liar.

"There will be some employes who won't be paid, and if no compromise is reached, I imagine there will be some suburban bus companies that will go out of business," Board member Richard Newland of Waukegan said, predicting the impact of the budget stalemate.

Other suburban directors include D. Daniel Baldino of Evanston, Jerry D. Boose of St. Charles and Gene Leonard of Oak Forest.

The suburban directors Tuesday called on the Chicago board members to "act in a statesmanlike fashion" and join with them in ousting Pikarsky. They said the city will suffer far more than the suburbs if public transportation funds are shut off.

"WHEN YOU ARE talking about suburban bus service you are talking about a limited number of buses serving a limited number of people," Newland said. He said the operation of commuter railroads, which serve a larger number of suburbanites, are not dependent on RTA funds.

CTA officials predict they can operate for stveral weeks without RTA funds.

The Chicago directors said they have no intention of joining with the suburban directors in ousting Pikarsky. Patrick O'Malley, who often serves as spokesman for the Chicago faction, said the suburban directors have "lost sight of their responsibility to millions of mass transportation riders."

"These people are being held hostage to satisfy the passionate hatred of some people for the capable and accomplished RTA chairman," O'Malley said.

NICHOLAS BOSEN, RTA director from Chicago, characterized the situation as "sort of a crap shoot." He said no one will do anything in the immediate future, noting that the board will wait for public pressure to mount.

Several suburban bus companies are preparing for the crisis by searching for ways to continue their operations without RTA funding.

The North Suburban Mass Transit District (NORTRAN) has asked that both state and federal government funds be diverted directly to NORTRAN if the RTA fails to adopt a budget.

"The CTA in the past under emergency conditions has gotten money directly from the state," said Joseph DiJohn, executive director of NORTRAN. He said as a last resort the district may try to borrow money from a consortium of banks in the northern suburbs.

Without either government funds or a loan, DiJohn said NORTRAN will have to halt operations July 16. The district operates bus service in Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Wheeling, Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove.

Carter addresses nation's mayors

'Job for every American' pledged

Carter has no magic wand to wave and solve our problems overnight; but under President Jimmy Carter, I promise you we will redirect our priorities and at last, at long last, public business will be the people's business."

In other developments, Tuesday, President Ford huddled with his advisors to assess the next moves in his campaign and Republican challenger Ronald Reagan weighed similar strategy.

Ford, described as enthusiastic over the two-day economic conference with the leaders of seven nations in Puerto Rico, met in the White House with his campaign strategists.

Reagan remained on his 680-acre ranch north of Santa Barbara and mapped his moves for the 1,130 delegates needed for the GOP nomination.He planned to remain on the ranch until after the Fourth of July.

Agriculture Sect. Earl L. Butz, meanwhile, said the President and the GOP are being hurt by lingering resentment from farmers upset with last year's embargo on grain sales to Russia and Poland.

Butz said in an interview he "still picks up a lot of resentment against our interference with exports last year. It comes up everywhere I go, and politically this has hurt the Ford campaign and probably has hurt the Republican party."

Butz said feelings should diminish soon "because . . . farmers will have pretty good prices and big crops this ytar." He predicted Ford will win the GOP nomination and that an improved economy will strengthen the party in farm areas.

Ring bells across land: Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford Tuesday called for two minutes of sustained bell-ringing across the land at 1 p.m. CDT on this Bicentennial Fourth of July to signify "our two centuries of independence." In a proclamation, Ford also urged all Americans to mark the country's 200th birthday by joining July 2 to July 5 in "an extended period of celebration, thanksgiving and prayer . . . for the future safety and happiness of our nation."

Ford issued his proclamation in accord with a resolution passed by Congress. Ford asked civic, religious and other community leaders "to encourage public participation in this historic observance."

Skyjackers want $10 million from U.S.

From Herald News Services

Palestinian guerrillas have demanded a $10 million ransom from the United States for the release of nine Americans who are among 257 hostages aboard a hijacked French airliner grounded in Uganda.

Rev. Paul Lindstrom, chairman of the Remember the Pueblo Committee based in Prospect Heights, first learned of the ransom Tuesday through contacts in the French Embassy in Kampala, 20 miles from Entebbe airport where the Air France plane remains grounded.

Lindstrom said late Tuesday afternoon he had confirmed the ransom demand with the U.S. State Department.

Lindstrom said "sources within the French embassy" told him "Americans on the hijacked plane will not be released until a $10 million ransom is paid to the Palestinian hijackers."

The Palestinians also are demanding that President Ford "demand that the Israeli government releases the Palestinians arrested during recent disturbances in Uganda," Lindstrom said.

The hijackers have demanded the release of 53 Palestinian "freedom fighters" imprisoned in Israel and four other countries for the safe release of the passengers on board the plane.

The hijackers, who commandeered an Air France jetliner Sunday en route from Tel Aviv to Paris, said officials had 48 hours to meet their demands or they would impose "severe and heavy penalties."

They did not spell out the penalties.

On Monday, the guerrillas threatened to blow up the plane with everyone on board if Ugandan security troops came too close. United Press International reports the five hijackers, believed to include two Chileans, a German and one woman, demanded — in a communique on Radio Uganda — the release of what they called "freedom fighters" from Israel, six from West Germany, five from Kenya, one from Switzerland and one from France.

On the list was Greek Catholic Archbishop Msgr. Hilarion Capucci jailed in Israel in 1974 for smuggling arms to Palestinian guerrillas in Israel.

France rejected the demands, and Israel was expected to. Kenya said it had no pro-Palestinian prisoners and Switzerland said it would decide Wednesday whether to release its prisoner.

The hijackers allowed passengers and crewmen to leave the sweltering plane Monday, but they remained under gunpoint in the airport terminal.

Air France officials in Paris said the guerrillas were armed with hand grenades and submachine guns.

The hostages include 9 Americans, 5 Canadians, 15 French citizens, 5 New Zelanders, some Britons, Greeks, Cypriots, one Argentinian and one Japanese and more than 80 Israelis.

Radio Uganda said Tuesday the hostages were in good condition.

Ugandan President Idi Amin, a long-time foe of Israel who declared his support for the "Palestine people," visited the hostages Monday night and said their morale "appears to be excellent."

But he appealed to the hijackers to release "old women, children and the sick."

U.S. vetoes U.N. Palestinian resolution

The United States Tuesday vetoed a resolution directing the U.N. Security Council to affirm the rights of Palestinians including self-determination, national independence and claims to property held by Israel. The vote was 10-1, with Britain, France, Italy and Sweden abstaining. Under U.N. rules the negative vote of the United States, as a permanent member of the Council, killed the measure. It was the second U.S. veto within a week and the third time this year that an American "no" blocked adoption of a Council resolution inimical to Israel.

W. Coast timber fire out of control

Exploding fire storms swept California's worst brush and timber fire of the year out of control in all directions Tuesday at the northern end of the parched Sacramento Valley. Racing uncontrolled over 5,000 acres, the flames burned grass, brush and timber deep into the Trinity-Shasta National Forest and climbed to the edge of the scenic and almost inaccessible Yolla Bolly Wilderness Area. An air tanker battling another of five forest fires in Northern California crashed killing the pilot, 80 miles to the southeast. The plane was among a fleet of tankers in the air dawn to dusk, bathing flames with tons of fire retardant chemicals.

New Viking landing site considered

Viking project manager Jim Martin said Tuesday he was considering a new potential landing site on Mars, southeast of the primary target, to put the 1,320-pound lander sometime in July. "At this point I'm considering anything I can find that looks like a landing site," he said. The original July 4th landing date was postponed because the primary site appeared too hazardous. Martin said photos of a northwest corner of that region Chryse, were being studied and the new site, to the southeast, also was being considered.

Arab war planes asked in Lebanon

Leftist forces in Lebanon appealed to Arab states Tuesday to send in war planes and paratroopers to break the eight-day Christian siege on two Palestinian refugee camps and warned of all-out war if the camps fall. Leftist leader Kamal Jumblatt did not identify which countries he has asked for assistance, but it was presumed to include Libya. The Tal Zaatar and Jisr Al Pasha camps in southeastern Beirut have begun to weaken under the eight-day attack by 6,000 Christians, who have also turned back desperate leftist counterattacks throughout the capital.

France accused of 'shotgun' marriages

The Organization of African Unity Tuesday accused France of forcing the girls of a tiny but strategic island in the Indian Ocean to marry French occupation troops in a plot to perpetuate French rule OAU spokesman Peter Onu read a statement accusing French authorities on the island of Mayotte of forcing girls to marry some of the 3,000 French occupation troops, thereby "changing the demographic character of the island so that in future years, it will be full of white children." Mayotte is geographically part of the Comoros Islands, which became independent of France last year.

Chloroform use banned by the FDA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration Tuesday ordered a ban on the use of chloroform in cosmetics, cough medicines and other products because it is a suspected cause of cancer.

The ban goes into effect July 29 but existing stocks of products containing chloroform may remain on the market until they are used up.

In a notice published in Tuesday's Federal Register, the FDA said it sees no reason for ordering a recall of existing stocks of products containing chloroform because "The present risk to the public is minimal. . ."

The FDA originally proposed the ban April 6, citing a report the substance caused liver cancer in mice. The agency said the benefits of chloroform were so minimal that they did not warrant exposing consumers to continued risk.

It said it realized its stand "will result in destruction of stocks of human drug and cosmetic products on hand" but that "the potential risks posed by chloroform do not justify continued shipment or use."

Kennedy, D-Mass; Mrs. Ford; Congresswomen Margaret Heckler, and Nancy Kissinger, Kissinger, wife of Sect. of State Henry Kissinger.

Court rules on seizure of records

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Tuesday ruled for the first time that police may seize a person's incriminating personal business papers and use them as evidence without violating the constitutional right against self-incrimination.

The 7-2 ruling said business papers can be obtained with a proper search warrant even if they reveal incriminating writings by the defendant. Since the writings were made voluntarily, the court said, there is no danger of coerced confession which the Fifth Amendment forbids.

The court, pushing to wind up its term by the end of this week, also ruled 6-3 that Congress can discriminate among illegitimate children, allowing some to collect Social Security death benefits routinely while others must prove eligibility.

The ruling in the Fifth Amendment case affirmed a decision by the Maryland Special Court of Appeals, which held that evidence seized in a lawyer's office could be used against him in a land fraud case.

Justice Harry A. Blackmun's majority opinion was another in a line of recent Fifth Amendment decisions broadening the kinds of evidence admissible at trial. Earlier this term the court held that a defendant's records could be subpoenaed from his lawyer and accountant under certain circumstances.

In 1965 the court ruled that use of blood extracted from a drunken person for testing can be used in court. In 1973 it said the Fifth Amendment was not violated by compelling a suspect to give voice and handwriting samples.

In most of those cases the court applied the same logic: A person's voice and handwriting, for example, are voluntary means of communication which are not compelled by the state Lower federal and state courts have been divided on the personal papers issue, and this was the first time the high court has ruled directly on the question.

The decision affirmed the conviction and two-year prison sentence of Montgomery County lawyer Peter C. Andresen.

Blackmun said obtaining records with a search warrant differed from use of subpoenas "in a crucial respect — the individual against whom the search is directed is not required to aid in the discovery, production, or authentication of incriminating evidence."

Dissenting were Justices William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall.

Explorer Heyerdahl thinks rafts safer than ships

• Norwegian explorer and author Thor Heyerdahl, gazing at the majestic squarerigged sailing ships anchored in Newport Harbor, says he would rather be on a raft. The 61-year-old Norwegian said he preferred a raft like the Kon Tiki he sailed across the Pacific, or the Egyptian reed raft he used to cross the Atlantic. He said well-lashed rafts stay afloat. Boats, he said with a smile, have a tendency to sink in a storm.

Mercenary death verdicts defended

LUANDA, Angola (UPI) — The Angolan justice minister Tuesday defended the death sentences and long prison terms handed down against 13 mercenaries as a reflection of "social justice."

"We think we have in this trial shown the world our greatness and our political maturity despite the youth of our state and our government," Justice Minister Diogenes Boavida told a news conference.

Boavida restricted his remarks to a prepared statement and shied away from answering the questions of foreign reporters who crowded around him.

He said he did not know when President Agostinho Neto would reach a decision on the three Britons and one American sentenced to death Monday by a revolutionary people's court.

Daniel Gearhart, 34, of Kensington, Md., a Vietnam veteran and father of four, was given the death sentence. Gary Acker, 21, of Sacramento, Calif., was sentenced to 16 years in prison and Gustavo Grillo, a 27-year-old Argentine American from Jersey City, N.J., was given the maximum 30 years.

Boavida declined to comment on whether the executions might be public.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Robert Funseth said the United States had asked the International Red Cross and "other countries" to plead for a reduction in the sentences.

"As far as they (the sentences) are concerned, we consider them to be unjust and hope they will be reconsidered," Funseth said.

Other Angolan sources said Neto, who must confirm the death verdicts before they can be carried out, has decided against making a snap judgment, preferring first to see the international and internal reaction to the sentencing.

Boavida said the sentences "reflect the sense of justice of our people and is in conformity with the principles of Socialist law."

"We think that genuine justice was delivered — severe but measured," he said.

MUCH OF THE WORK on legislation still pending before the Illinois General Assembly has progressed to a hallway at the side of the House chamber where representatives and senators meet in conference committees to resolve differences between the two chambers. Munson defends use of cars by Harper Board

by DIANE GRANAT

Shirley Munson, Harper College Board chairman, after a day-long investigation Tuesday, defended the use of official college cars by board members, but Mrs. Munson refused comment on charges that College Pres. Robert Lahti allegedly used college vehicles for his personal use.

The Herald Tuesday reported accounts by past and present employes of the college's public safety department that Lahti allegedly asked safety employes to pick up his son from a soccer game and drive him to a friend's house. They also said they drove college administrators and Lahti to a restaurant and waited until they were finished eating. Other instances included delivering mail to his home in Inverness and traveling to Woodfield Shopping Center in Schaumburg to help his wife start her car, a public safety employe told The Herald.

Employes also said they have driven Lahti to board of directors' meetings at the Bank of Elk Grove in Elk Grove Village. Lahti has served on the board for 4½ years and receives $100 for each board meeting. Lahti also owns stock in the bank.

HARPER COLLEGE HAS had an auxiliary fund account at the bank for nine years.

Mrs. Munson said she is "satisfied that there is no conflict of interest" involved with college funds being placed in the Bank of Elk Grove while Lahti is a board member and stockholder.

Safety employes also told of incidents where they picked up board members at the train station and drove them to the college, drove board members home from Harper, and took them to Lancer's Restaurant in Schaumburg for "secret meetings."

Mrs. Munson said Tuesday she checked records concerning the use of automobiles at Harper and she "saw no situations at all that were abusive of the transportation system."

MRS. MUNSON SAID "as far as I can see there were no secret meetings." She said the only meeting she knew of at Lancer's Restaurant was a negotiating session and board members were driven there after coming in from work "when they didn't have time to eat.

"At no time was a security officer asked to wait outside," she said.

Regarding charges that Lahti misused college vehicles, Mrs. Munson said she was satisfied there were no problems "to the point I did check. Where there are no records, I don't want to venture any comment on Dr. Lahti since he is not here to comment on them." Lahti is at a convention in Denver and was unavailable for comment Tuesday.

Mrs. Munson said she had no comment on a memo published by The Herald Tuesday from the office of the president at Harper to campus security asking security to pick up Lahti's son from a soccer game.

COLLEGE REGULATIONS state vehicles should be used only for official college business.

House asks penalty for corrupt firms

The House, angry that lawmakers were convicted of bribery tion, passed 122-8, asks Gov. Daniel Walker to prevent any corrupt went free, Tuesday passed a resolution to deprive corrupt corporations of state contracts. "The man who sits behind me (Rep. Louis Capuzi, R-Chicago) is going to the penitentiary over $200, yet Lester Crown is going to the French Riviera and his palatial home after raising $50,000 to bribe public officials," shouted Rep. Ronald Stearney, sponsor of the resolution.

"It's a complete abortion of justice, and I don't think any wrongdoer should go completely unpunished," said Stearney. His resolu- while cement company executives who took part in the scheme company from bidding on state contracts. The resolution is now in the Senate. Crown is president of Material Service Corp., which helped raise two bribe funds totaling $80,000 in 1972 to ensure passage of a bill to allow heavier cement trucks on Illinois highways. The bill passed but was vetoed. Crown admitted his role in the scheme and was granted immunity by federal prosecutors to testify against the eight defendants — six past and present lawmakers, a cement industry executive and a lobbyist. The lobbyist and five of the legislators, including Capuzi, were convicted.

Court throws out libel suit

The Illinois Supreme Court announced Tuesday it has denied a request for a hehearing on a $6 million libel suit filed against Gov. Daniel Walker by two Chicago real estate brokers. The court ruled earlier this year the governor acted in his official capacity when he called the brokers some unpleasant names. As a result, the court said, he was absolutely immune from any libel action. The brokers had requested the rehearing, which was denied in a simple order, without elaboration.

McLean County hit by twisters

Twelve twisters, eight of them touching down, tore through rural McLean County Tuesday, destroying corn cribs, barns and crops, Civil Defense authorities said. Most of the twisters were sighted about 2:30 p.m. Within five minutes, five twisters had touched down, a McLean County CD spokesman said. The heaviest damage was sustained near the cities of Colfax and Lexington in the northeastern part of the county, where 90 per cent of the corn and soybean crops were destroyed. No injuries were reported.

Metropolitan briefs

Judge may release U.S. cash for city

A federal court judge said Tuesday he will consider releasing $19 million in federal revenue sharing funds for Chicago if the city files reports by Thursday showing it is complying with court orders aimed at ending discrimination in the police department. However, U.S. District Court Judge Prentice H. Marshall angrily accused city attorneys of foot-dragging in the case and demanded they submit a final police officer eligibility list from the 1975 police examination by Aug. 18. The judge pounded his fist on the bench and said, "We're not going to wait any longer . . . I want that final roster."

In a seven-page opinion Marshall said the revenue sharing money could be released next week if the city meets "some very modest reporting requirements."

Man dies in Hancock plunge

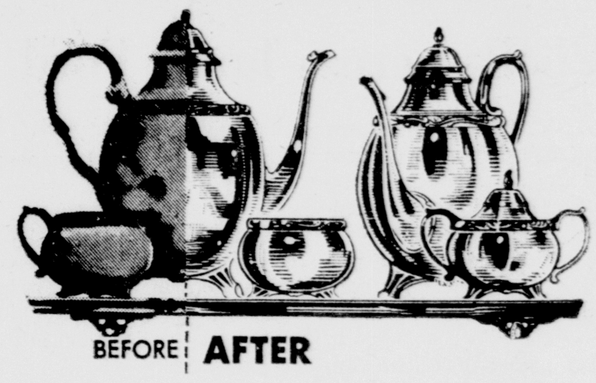

A medical social worker plunged to his death Tuesday from his father's luxury apartment on the 91st floor of the John Hancock Center. Bradley A. Stine, 27, a 1970 honors graduate from Yale and a medical social worker in the psychiatric department of Cook County Hospital, smashed a window on the 48th floor of the sloping 100-story building before landing on East Delaware Place near the entrance to the Hancock apartments. The victim's father, Orrin Stine, president of an optical firm, identified his son's shattered body. He described his son as being "very happy" and called his death a tragic accident.

Stine, his father said, "liked to watch the sunrise and often read in a seat next to the window." Reading glasses and an opened textbook were found near the window.

Mrs. Swearingen in court

Bonnie Swearingen, wife of Standard Oil Co. of Indiana Board Chairman John E. Swearingen, will appear in court Friday on charges of disorderly conduct. The wealthy socialite, when arrested at O'Hare International Airport June 20, described herself to police as an "unemployed civic leader." Police said Mrs. Swearingen, co-chairman of the Chicago Bicentennial Committee, was arrested when Harold W. Kabus, Arlington Heights, signed a complaint against her. The incident apparently began when Kabus put his suitcases on Mrs. Swearingen's luxury automobile and Mrs. Swearingen threw them off.

Countryside Art Center to move facility in August

The Countryside Art Center, 414 N. Vail Ave., will move to 408 N. Vail Ave. in mid-August when bulldozers arrive to demolish the building the village now rents to the art center.

The three-story building at 414 N. Vail Ave. and another village-owned building immediately west of it at 115 W. Fremont St. will be demolished this fall to make way for a parking lot for commuters and patrons of the Arlington Heights Memorial Library.

The new parking lot is needed because the library expansion will eliminate an existing lot.

LIBRARY OFFICIALS hope construction of the addition will begin in September. Plans call for the building to extend across Fremont Street, south of the library building.

The $1.6 million expansion was approved by voters in a February referendum.

The two buildings scheduled for demolition would have been razed soon even if the library expansion had not been approved because it would have been too costly to repair them, said Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson.

The Arlington Heights Civil Defense headquarters, the youth counseling center and the United Fund now are housed in the building at 115 W. Fremont St.

OFFICERS OF THE Countryside Art Center welcome the move to the small brick building south of the present center because of the dilapidated condition of the center's current building.

"We're looking forward to the move tremendously. It's a much better building," Sandra Blanc, president of the art center, said.

The two upper floors of the building now rented by the center have not been used because they have been condemned by the fire department, she said.

Mrs. Blanc said the center will have its gallery and some classrooms on the main floor of the new building. Classrooms also will be in the basement if a sprinkling system and a second exit are installed by the village, she said.

The art center will not move until about Aug. 15 because the buildings at 408 N. Vail Ave. will serve as a headquarters for the U.S. Census Bureau while a special census is conducted in Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Blanc said the art center will close July 16 and reopen in its new quarters Sept. 7.

Controls threaten auto tracks

Doctor fights to keep racing noisy

by JOE SWICKARD

What's basketball without the dribble, or baseball without the homerun or auto racing without the roar of finely tuned machines as they tear around a track?

"Sound is an integral part of the sport. Sound is music to the aficionado's ears," Dr. Thomas E. Cronin said.

Cronin, of the O'Hare Industrial Clinic, 2620 E. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village, has fought a three-year battle to keep Illinois' auto race tracks open despite noise control measures of the Illinois Pollution Control Board that threaten to silence them.

In addition to his duties as medical director of the clinic, Cronin has fought to overturn the control board's ruling that would limit to 61 decibels noise generated by auto racing when monitored at the nearest property line.

THE EFFECT OF the regulation, on the books but not enforced, would be the closing of all motor sports facilities in Illinois.

Cronin said the noise level limitations are unrealistic. "They would put all the tracks out of business. Nobody can meet this (standard)," he said.

The board's standards would place mufflers on one sport without similar restrictions on others, he said.

"We feel we are a sport the same as any other and we expect the same regulations on all. If they are doing this to us, then they must do the same to White Sox or the Bears. They have defined our noise as being different than what comes out of Wrigley Field," said Cronin, a sports car racer and president of the local chapter of the Sports Car Club of America.

He said while the control board wants race track noise limited to 61 decibels, normal voice levels are 60 decibels, street corner traffic generates 75 decibels and football games push out 81 decibels a block away from the stadium.

To overcome the regulation, motor sports fans and participants formed the Assoc. of Motor Sports to push a bill through the General Assembly.

THE BILL, SENATE Bill 193, cleared the Senate a year ago by a 47-0 margin and the House 129-22.

Cronin said the bill produced more mail to lawmakers than any other issue, including the Equal Rights Amendment and abortion legislation.

This support is to be expected of the sport with the second biggest paid gate in the country, he said. More than five million persons attended motor races in Illinois last year, he said, in additon to 10,000 licensed race drivers and 30,000 crew members.

"This is a $120 million industry in this state," he said.

THE BILL IS ON the desk of Gov. Daniel Walker. If Walker does not sign it or vetoes it, Cronin said their supporters have enough strength in the General Assembly to override it.

Cronin said the regulations could have impact far beyond the state lines.

"Illinois is going to be the test state. A lot of other states are just sitting back and waiting for us here," he said.

Cronin said if the regulations stand and tracks are closed, many persons are going to continue to race but on the public streets and roads instead of tracks.

"We want to keep racing off the streets and on the tracks where it belongs," Cronin said.

Girl, 2, drowns in swim pool

A 2-year-old Palatine girl drowned Monday after she crawled through a crack in a fence and fell into a neighbor's pool.

Ashley Berman, 347 Kensington Rd., drowned in 10 feet of water in a backyard swimming pool owned by Lillian Casey, 347 Drovers, between 11 a.m. and 2:53 p.m. Monday, police said.

Mrs. Casey's 11-year-old daughter, Lori, discovered the child's body lying at the bottom of the pool shortly before 3 p.m., police said. Mrs. Casey urged a crowd of onlookers to save the child, but members of the crowd reportedly refused to help, police said. Mrs. Casey called police. Palatine Patrolman Dennis Somsel answered the call, police said. At the pool, Somsel tore off his gunbelt, dove in and pulled the child's body up and to the side of the pool, where he began mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, police said.

Police and paramedics arrived too late to revive the girl, and her body was transported to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights. She was pronounced dead on arrival at 3:50 p.m., police said.

Employe charged with theft of cash

An Arlington Heights woman faces a charge of grand theft for allegedly falsifying records and stealing more than $2,000 from the J.C. Penney store at Woodfield Shopping Center, Schaumburg.

Schaumburg police Monday afternoon arrested Mary L. Hozwarth, 28, of 900 Rand Rd., after she reportedly told James McArthur, Penney's security manager, she had falsified accounts and stolen a total of $2,081.81 while working in the store's catalog department.

An audit revealed the missing cash, police said.

Ms. Hozwarth allegedly stole the money between the time she was hired at Penney's in February and the audit this month.

Ms. Holzwarth was released on $2,000 bond and ordered to appear July 14 in the Schaumburg branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Scale model of town to be dedicated

The scale model of Arlington Heights, constructed by model railroad enthusiasts, will be dedicated at 2 p.m. Saturday in the coach house of the Arlington Heights Historical Society, 500 N. Vail Ave.

Speed limit, sign law to be reviewed today

Criteria for setting speed limits and installing stop signs will be reviewed tonight by the Arlington Heights Village Board public health and safety committee. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

Love—more than a word to the staff of Little City

by LUISA GINNETTI
First of a two-part series

"To understand is to love."

Visitors cannot help but notice the simple yet profound motto etched in the stone gate at the entrance to Little City. And at this residential training center for the mentally retarded, the motto is more than just words, it is a principle which staff members do their best to apply daily.

Located on Algonquin Road west of Roselle Road in Palatine, Little City was founded in 1959 as one of the first private facilities of its kind in the country.

The center serves 182 children and young adults whose problems range from mild to severe retardation, and physical impairments such as blindness.

DR. DONALD R. BECKER, superintendent of the center, who joined Little City in 1962, said behavioral modification designed to help the students learn social as well as vocational training is the essence of the Little City program.

"We take the difficult rather than the easy cases," Becker said. "I insist on seeing every child. We don't want to go just by what's on paper."

The Little City program revolves around three basic learning areas — personal, social and economic.

The personal training takes place in the eight cottages on the 60-acre facility, where the students, aged 7-37, learn how to deal in a home life atmosphere.

EACH COTTAGE houses students who are grouped according to their classifications. Level one students, or those who are considered capable of functioning with only some supervision or support, reside in what compares to a dormitory setting. These students generally are capable of caring for their own rooms and some even have radios, televisions and stereo equipment.

More severely retarded students are grouped together and receive more stringent care including basic toilet training and self-feeding training.

Social training focuses on the students' leisure and free time including recreational activities, field trips and special interest clubs. The students have participated, for example, in the National Special Olympics for the mentally retarded.

Economic training is aimed at helping the students learn vocational skills which can be applied in outside jobs. In conjunction with this, the students take part in workshops such as the candle shop and the Little City Florarium, a greenhouse where potted plants and homemade candles are sold.

THE FLORARIUM is open daily and gives the students an opportunity to deal with the public as shoppers come in to make purchases.

Students receive various rewards for their work. Lower level students are given tokens which may be used to purchase candy or other goods. Higher level students, who do not need actual physical rewards, are given added privileges such as extra coffee breaks and extra dessert.

There are no fences or barriers around the Little City grounds and students are allowed and encouraged to be as self-supporting as possible.

The center accepts students from across the country and has residents from as far as Alaska and Florida. Parents are asked to arrange their trips to the center in advance, but are encouraged to take their children home for holidays and other occasions.

TURNOVER OF STUDENTS at the center is slow because, as Becker points out, seeing results in some cases can take as long as five years. And even then, in most cases, the students may not be ready to function in a normal society atmosphere, Becker said.

Little City's goal is to expand to better meet the needs of the mentally retarded, officials said, and with a yearly total of 800 to 1,000 applications, expansion is essential.

But with growth comes work, which often means long hours and seven-day weeks for Becker and his staff of 130.

"I didn't take a vacation for 10 years and I work sometimes 16 to 20 hours a day, seven days a week," Becker said.

But it is a job he loves.

"What's been my greatest satisfaction? Just being here."

Post 981 cited at VFW convention

Arlington Heights VFW Post 981 recently was honored at the VFW state convention in Rosemont.

The post took first-place honors in the Americanism category.

Bruce Hansen, post commander, was appointed aide to state VFW Cmdr. Walter Lukstra. Irvin McDougall was selected state security officer.

Parks plan Greek tour

The Arlington Heights Park District Feminique program will sponsor a trip July 28 to Chicago's Greek community.

Highlights of the day will be Greek recipes from tour hostess Falicia Slavic, lunch at the Isle of Greece restaurant and a shopping spree in the Warehouse shopping arcade.

Buses will leave from Frontier Park at 10 a.m. and Pioneer Park at 10:15 a.m. The buses are scheduled to return about 3 p.m.

The fee is $13 and covers transportation and lunch.

Registration is being taken at Camlot Park, 1005 E. Suffield Dr., Arlington Heights.

Seniors to ride free to Heritage Day fest

Free transportation will be available for the Senior Citizens Heritage Day at Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner St., Arlington Heights.

The day, part of the village Festival '76 celebration, will begin at noon Thursday with a picnic lunch at the park. Coffee and tea will be provided.

Persons needing transportation to the park can contact the Wheeling Township Dial-a-Bus service at 259-7733 or the Arlington Heights Park District at 394-4949.

Prizes will be awarded to the oldest person attending the picnic and the person who has lived the longest in Arlington Heights.

Masters of ceremonies for the program will be Red Best and Virgil Horath of the Arlington Heights Historical Society.

Jim Hudson

Mark Hudson

East Maine Christian Academy

Jim and Mark Hudson of Arlington Heights, were honored for academic achievement by the East Maine Christian Academy, 900 Milwaukee Ave., Glenview.

Jim, a second grader, received a first place award for the most units of work completed in the 1975-76 school year for first through fourth graders. Jim completed 91 units and began working at fourth grade level at the end of the year. Forty-eight is the usual year's work load.

Mark, a seventh grader, was a cowinner for second place academic award in grades five through seven. Mark finished 82 units of work and in two years at the school he has jumped three grade levels and gained more than three years in his national achievement test scores.

Mark also received a special merit award from the superintendent of the academy for all-around outstanding work and improvement. The award was given for other factors as well as academic improvment. In the last two years Mark has mastered the guitar and this year won eight of the nine monthly recital contests at the school.

St. Viator High School

Terry Frett, Arlington Heights, is this year's outstanding St. Viator High School graduate and has received the Erdmann Award. The award is given to the senior who best exemplifies school spirit and significantly contributes to the St. Viator community.

The award was instituted in honor of Christopher Erdmann, a senior in the class of 1968, who died of leukemia. His parents initiated he Chrisopher Cup. Each graduate nomiated one senior for the award and the 10 receiving the most votes were the first nominees. The fitld was narrowed to five, with faculy making the final choice.

New promise in vandal war

Awareness appears to be developing nationwide to the mounting problem of vandalism. That awareness is evident in programs launched in two suburban communities 70 miles apart that appear especially interesting in their approach to the crime.

One is an effort at more vigorous and effective enforcement; the other is a deliberate effort to torpedo attitudes among children which support the current wave of vandalism.

Mount Prospect police are taking a firm approach with vandals by assigning two undercover policemen, assigned strictly to apprehend vandals, to work the streets.

Records show more than 100 arrests in the community since April. To date, police report, vandalism is still increasing in the community. However, it is too early to pass judgment on the program as a deterrent to vandalism; it is quite new and has received publicity only in recent days.

In the Milwaukee suburb of Wauwatosa, the local Chamber of Commerce has developed a different approach toward vandalism, using peer group pressure. Police there are using youths to educate each other about the pitfalls of vandalism and to show them it is not the "impersonal" crime it is supposed to be.

According to authorities in Wauwatosa, the program is working well and has effected a 16 per cent decrease in the number of vandalism incidents in the past year.

The two approaches toward vandalism — taking the romance out of the crime and making the offenders suffer — are not mutually exclusive. In fact, they would seem to complement each other. The Mount Prospect department appears to be doing an excellent job, and word will get around among youngsters that they can get into a lot of trouble vandalizing property.

But the effect of the Wauwatosa program also is attracting recognition. Two members of the Arlington Heights Zero Vandalism Committee will join representatives from various other communities in studying the Wauwatosa program. They will determine whether it could be applied to the local war on vandalism.

Vandalism is a pernicious problem that not only costs property owners and taxpayers enormous amounts of money but also teaches children a disrespect for the law. We applaud the imagination and vigor with which local communities are approaching it.

Dist. 25 should back string music plan

When Arlington Heights Dist. 25 faced a money shortage in 1970, the school board made a decision to drop the district's music program.

Within months a parents group formed and took over the responsibility for providing a string music program in Dist. 25, and Music For Youth was born.

The parents organization, which charges fees to families who participate, has relied on annual subsidies from the Dist. 25 board to continue the string program. This year Music For Youth is asking for a $14,800 subsidy to keep the program out of the red.

Last week, the Dist. 25 board heard a recommendation to subsidize Music For Youth for $8,800 for the 1976-77 school year. The board voted 3 to 3 on the proposed subsidy, with one member absent, and the issue has been deferred for future board action.

We urge the Dist. 25 board members to approve the subsidy when they reconsider the funding request.

There are 140 children enrolled in the Music For Youth program, and we believe the board should do as much as it can to maintain a string music program in the district for these children. The $8,800 subsidy is a small amount when compared to what it would cost the district to reinstate such a program.

Dist. 25 is fortunate to have a group of parents who are interested enough in a total education program for their children that they would volunteer to organize this music program.

We hope the board responds to this dedication by helping them continue the string program.

Pups should be sold, not given away

Many people don't realize that special care should be given in finding new homes for their dogs and cats. Animals should be advertised for SALE rather than for FREE. Not only does this encourage better care of the animals, but when kittens and puppies are advertised as give-aways in newspapers and on grocery store bulletin boards, research laboratories and dogfight trainers pick up litters for their purposes.

Puppies should be transferred to their new homes at the age of seven weeks. Transfer should be avoided at eight to 10 weeks; it's been theorized that pups go through a fear imprint stage at that time.

PROSPECTIVE BUYERS of your animals should be interviewed on the following points:

1. Have they owned a dog before, and what happened to it? Avoid those who have disposed of their dogs previously.

2. Do they have a fenced yard? Avoid those who allow their dogs to roam unleashed.

3. What sort of veterinary attention do they plan? Avoid those who do not plan annual vaccinations and medical examinations.

4. Why do they want this pup? Avoid those who primarily desire a guard dog instead of a companion.

5. Do they plan to breed the pup when it matures? Avoid those who do not recognize the pet overpopulation and do not plan to spay or neuter the animal.

6. How much attention will the pet receive? Avoid those who look upon animals as ornaments or status symbols instead of living creatures that need care and affection.

7. Can they afford to provide a proper diet? Avoid those who are more interested in price than quality of food.

Court rule doesn't make it right

What could be more macabre than selling the parts of aborted babies and using the money to celebrate the birth of Jesus Christ?

Yes this has actually happened according to an article in the Washington Post. The thousands of dollars made from such grisly sales were "used as petty cash, which paid for things like duplicate keys for the lab, and on at least one occasion Christmas cards for the lab to send out."

Perhaps this incident, or incidents, will help pro-abortionists to understand why anti-abortionists are so insistent that this murder should stop. The people of Germany were also ashamed of what their national leaders were doing to the Jewish people, but they had allowed Hitler and the Gestapo to become more and more powerful, and then it was too late to stop the barbarism which rapidly became more and more grotesque. Will this also happen in this nation? Will we be accused of trying to impose our will on other people when we someday protest the kindly elimination of old people?

Realistically, I realize that I could never convince some people that there is a God, and that we are offending Him by what we are doing. I can only hope that pro-abortionists will someday realize that it is wrong to kill, and that a supreme court decision does not make it right. Granted, it does solve problems. An Atomic Bomb wiping out all living things would also solve all problems, but wouldn't that be a rather stupid solution?

It should also be pointed out that although children do take up much of our time and money, they will someday become productive and that they will produce more than they will utilize. If this were not true our world would be a wilderness instead of being covered by so many man-made things. Our declining birthrate, if it continues, will guarantee the end of the Social Security system, and all our other welfare programs, and this might be a fitting reward for some of the younger pro-abortionists . . . when they finally reach retirement age.

Band kids top ambassadors

We were recently privileged to host both the William Fremd and the Forest View High School marching bands during their visit to Central Florida and Walt Disney World

We would like the people of their communities to know what fine traveling ambassadors the band members are. Their performances were superb. Both Bob Klassy and Dallas Niermeyer have done excellent jobs in molding these young people into truly professional musical organizations.

Most impressive, however, was the way the youngsters conducted themselves while they were here. Their conduct, dress and overall attitude of friendliness and cooperation were truly outstanding. Everyone who came in contact with them was impressed. Many hotel, restaurant and attraction employes made it a point to tell us how much they enjoyed working with the kids. When they left the hotel in Orlando, I felt I was saying "so long" to 228 new, warm friends.

They are, indeed, a credit to their directors, their parents, their school and the entire community. If these are examples of the leaders of tomorrow, I, for one, have no fears concerning the future of our nation.

Fremd and Forest View are more than welcome in Central Florida at any time.

Not prerequisite

On June 8, The Herald published a letter I had written in which I stated that the United States government, through its Supreme Court decision of 1973 which liberalized abortion laws, recognized women as people, rather than as reproductive instruments.

Contrary to a rebuttal which was published on June 21 by a person with an opposing view, I did not state that an abortion was a prerequisite for "personhood," but rather that it was the availability of a choice between motherhood or not which recognizes women as being important enough to determine the direction of their own lives.

Concerning the issue of human life before birth, I am in full agreement with the decision of the Supreme Court, contrary again to the rebuttal in which the author stated that I have made my own definition of "human being" to serve my own needs. The American Civil Liberties Union also endorses the definitions set by the Supreme Court.

ANTI-ABORTIONISTS advocate abolition of the newly liberalized abortion laws so that no abortion would be legal (They would once again have to be done illegally), even in the case of a pregnant rape victim. They are unable to offer a consistent rationality for the production of unwanted children which, as psychiatrists have long known, can produce devastating effects on the mother as well as on the children. Maternal rejection is a well known element in mental illness. The anti-abortionists want government laws prohibiting legal abortion and therefore want federal control over the personal lifestyle of any (since any birth control except sterilization is not 100 per cent dependable) sexually active woman.

Emotional attempts to portray abortion as a "violent removal of a baby from a previously safe and secure environment" (can't this also be related to the process of birth?) only serve to block serious rational thought on the topic.

As it stands now, abortion is legal (but not mandatory) during the first trimester of pregnancy. Opposing views will probably always exist on this issue. The government of the United States recognzes this by allowing for a personal choice rather than by dictating mandatory motherhood on women.

It is doubtful that any other position on the issue is realistic in our pluralistic society.

'Public able to make informed decision'

Opponents of nuclear power were handed a sound defeat on June 8, 1976, when California's Proposition 15 was defeated by more than a 2 to 1 margin. Proposition 15 would have, in effect, prohibited nuclear plants in that state.

Despite the distribution of a plethora of fear propaganda predicting a doomsday from continued reliance on nuclear power and the staged resignations of three General Electric employes, the California voters examined the facts and made a rational decision. The public's ability to make an intelligent and informed decision is one factor Mr. Nader and his backers failed to recognize. Proponents of Proposition 15 overestimated the gullibility of most voters (although some were taken in) and placed almost exclusive reliance on innuendo, misinformation and outright falsehoods.

ALTHOUGH THE effects of the vote will not be felt for some time, one fact does emerge. Given the facts, the public is capable of making intelligent decisions and no amount of circus antics, or unrealistic scenarios of doom created by self-proclaimed demigods will sway their opinions.

Is Soviet military cost underrated?

WASHINGTON — (LENS) — Is the Soviet military ogre growing to be 10 feet tall or only nine and a half? Or is it possible that he is not growing at all, and that the recent brouhaha over increased Russian defense spending is nothing more than gross misrepresentation by American militarists who want to get the biggest possible defense budget through Congress for next year?

The answer to the first question is that nobody really knows accurately just how much Russia spends, or what effect the spending will have on its armed forces a few years hence. The answer to the second is that the CIA and several other organizations have produced estimates to serve as a rough guide to what the Russians are spending.

They normally do two of these, a "ruble" estimate to measure the burden on the Russian economy and a "dollar" estimate that tries to compare Soviet spending with that of the United States, or all of NATO.

THE PROBLEM is that both of these figures are admittedly imperfect, and both have been used at various times without qualification, and sometimes confused with one another, by advocates on both sides of the spending debate, to prove their own points.

So when it became known a few weeks ago that the CIA estimates might have seriously underestimated Soviet spending and were being reworked, some American skeptics got their calculators out. One of them, Congressman Les Aspin of Wisconsin, pointed out that the dollar estimate in particular made the Russian military budget look bigger than it actually is. This is because of the "market basket" effect, well known to economists: to compare a basket of British groceries with the same products bought in another country usually makes the foreign ones look more expensive. This does not mean Britain lives more cheaply; it means that the foreigners have different tastes and needs, and their marketing system is more efficient at delivering what they want.

So to put a cost on the Soviet military establishment as if it were produced by the United States — which is roughly what the CIA does — tends to exaggerate its real cost.

But Aspin has found other problems as well, the mst important of which is that the Russians seem to be using a lot of their military men to do things civilians do in most Western countries — internal security, civil defense, research and work on civil construction projects.

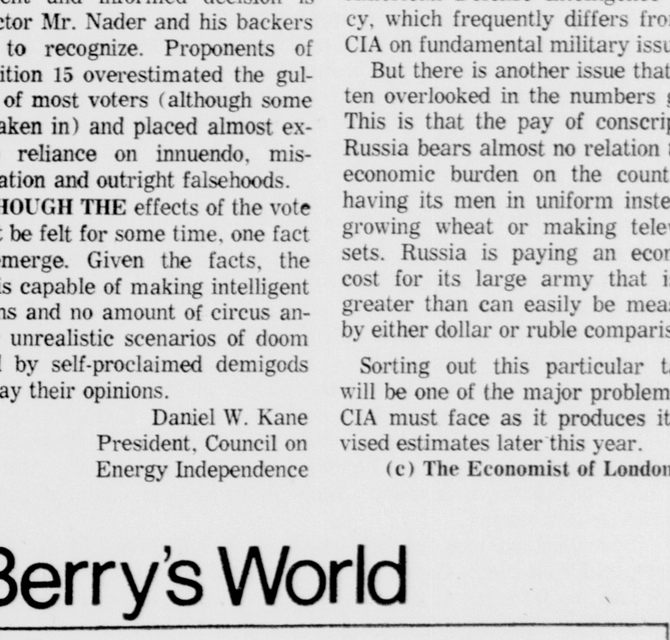

NOT ONLY DOES this tend to skew the dollar estimates even further, but it also makes the recent growth of Soviet military manpower look a lot less menacing than if it were all pumped into the combat forces. Aspin's figures are generally confirmed by estimates released last week by the American Defense Intelligence Agency, which frequently differs from the CIA on fundamental military issues.

But there is another issue that is often overlooked in the numbers game. This is that the pay of conscripts in Russia bears almost no relation to the economic burden on the country of having its men in uniform instead of growing wheat or making television sets. Russia is paying an economic cost for its large army that is far greater than can easily be measured by either dollar or ruble comparisons.

Sorting out this particular tangle will be one of the major problems the CIA must face as it produces its revised estimates later this year.

Insiders gain most on stock splits

Speaking dollar-wise

by Robert S. Rosefsky

Is it smart to invest in a stock when there has been an announcement that it will split? By that time, you're probably too late. If gains are to be made on an impending stock split, they'll likely be grabbed off before the announcement of the split becomes public.

The results of a recent study by Barron's, the financial news weekly, illustrate the price swings before and after announcements of 60 stock splits that occurred during late 1975 and early 1976. The figures confirm that it's the insiders — those who know of the forthcoming action before the public does — who can and do take the money and run.

Technicaly, making use of inside information to profit in the market is illegal. But policing it is virtually impossible, except in blatant cases. The insider himself may not act on the information he has. But when he winks twice at Aunt Lucy over the dinner table, she knows exactly what to do. And so it goes.

THIS IS THE KIND of hanky-panky the outsider is up against when he tries to second-guess Wall Street.

A stock split usually occurs when a company wants to make more of its shares available to the investing public, and at a lower price. A typical example: XYZ is selling at $80 per share, and is paying an annual dividend of $2 per share. They split 2-for-1. Each holder of XYZ will now own twice as many shares, at a price which theoretically should level off at $40 per share. Unless the board of directors takes extraordinary action, the new dividend per share will become $1. This' you actually don't profit as a result of the split itself. But splits are usually considered at least a psychological boost, and the greater number of shares now available could help to improve the price of the stock.

Thus there's a presumption — often erroneous — that when a company announces a forthcoming stock split there will be a better chance for gain in that stock.

The Barron's survey charted the stock prices from the day two months prior to the split announcement and two months after the announcement. Of the 60 stocks in question, 38 of them showed more gain before the announcement than they did after the announcement. The average gain during the two-month-prior period was 30.6 per cent. The average gain during the two-month-after period was 3.1 per cent. Indeed, during the after-period, 23 of these 38 stocks actually dropped in value from their price on announcement date.

THIRTEEN OF the 60 stocks gained more after the announcement of the split than they did before the announcement. Of these, the average gain in the period before the announcement was 1 per cent; the average gain in the period after was 16 per cent. (The other nine stocks either lost before and after the announcement or had split too recently to have valid after-period measurements.)

The bottom line: by a margin of roughly 3-to-1, the short-term profits were made before the public announcement as compared to after the announcement. If you buy a stock on the announcement of a split, the odds are working against you. More likely you'll take a loss than realize a gain, over the short term.

Your best bet is to get a reliable Ouija board, or know someone on the inside.

Commerce panel outlining strategy

Opposition to the proposed country head tax and support of the suburban Regional Transportation Authority (RTA) board members are being considered by the Northwest Assn. of Chambers of Commerce, it was revealed Tuesday at an Elk Grove Village strategy session.

Northwest suburban businesses should determine common needs and map out plans to solve shared problems, said association president Earl Johnson. He also serves as executive manager of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce.

The association has had its ups and downs during its two-year history, Johnson conceded. The group was formed by area chambers of commerce to give area businesses and industry a bigger voice.

Johnson urged the business spokesmen to drum up local opposition to the proposed Cook County head tax on area employers. "Continue to bombard them with letters," he said of the County board.

WILLIAM LEESON, president of the Northwest Suburban Assn. of Commerce and Industry, Inc. in Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg, said the development of new industry and jobs would be hampered by the tax.

Recommendations for cooperative action will be taken before local chambers of commerce for approval. In addition to the head tax opposition, recommendations include:

- Support of suburban RTA board members. Bud Patz of the Bensenville Chamber of Commerce said suburban industries should communicate local transit needs and programs.
- A uniform consumer complaint program, proposed by Patz. The recommendation includes a system for checking complaints and forwarding them to the appropriate chamber of commerce.
- Eastbound exits at the Northwest Tollway and Arlington Heights Road. Johnson said regional support for the exits can be forwarded to the state tollway commission. An increasing number of local employes live in western suburbs, he said.
- Water conservation. Industrial water conservation programs will benefit northwest suburban communities where the water table is falling, Johnson said.
- Support of the proposed extension of the Chicago commercial zone for trucking rates to additional suburban communities was urged by Stan Klyber of the Elk Grove Assn. of Industry and Commerce.

Categories for associate memberships in chambers of commerce and fees for certification of export documents for nonmembers also were proposed by Klyber.

Withholding rate extension to Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House passed and sent to President Ford Tuesday a two-month extension of current lower income tax withholding rates.

Ford is expected to sign the bill promptly, preventing taxes for almost all Americans from rising by several dollars per week Thursday.

The House passed the bill unanimously.

The Senate Monday agreed to the simple extension to Sept. 1 after it became obvious that it could not complete action on a major tax revision measure, one part of which is extension of tax cuts.

Center plans seniors' day

A special day for senior citizens is planned Friday by the Northpoint Merchants Assn. at the Arlington Heights shopping center. Special activities and price discounts are being offered seniors who visit the center that day. Among the programs is a Social Security Administration booth which will be open from noon to 5 p.m. Administration staff will answer questions and provide information about Social Security. Residents 60 years and older may ride free on the Wheeling Township senior citizens shuttle bus, which serves the center Fridays.

Postal rate hikes told

The Postal Service Tuesday announced rate increases ranging from 5 to 20 per cent go into effect July 6 for certain types of second, third and fourth class mail. The new rates will become effective at 12:01 a.m. July 6. As one example, the cost of mailing a single package under the special fourth class book rate will increase from 21 to 25 cents per pound. A Postal Service spokesman said the 1976 phased increases, which the law allows to take effect each July 6, will bring in an estimated $1.5 million in additional revenue each week. The Postal Rate Commission plans to propose a new schedule of permanent rates Wednesday.

People in business

RICHARD HEATH of Elk Grove Village has been elected a director of the Illinois Credit Union League, a non profit trade association serving more than 1,400 Illinois credit unions. In this capacity, he represents approximately 65 credit unions in the northern Cook County area. Heath is assistant general manager of United Air Lines Employes' Credit Uiion. He also served as 1975-76 president of the Northern Cook County Chapter of Credit Unions and is a director of the Airline Credit Union Educational Assn. Rally pushes Dow up 3 points

The Dow Jones industrial average battled through the 1,000 level Tuesday in fairly active trading on the New York Stock Exchange in a rally helped by a rise in the government's leading economic indicators.

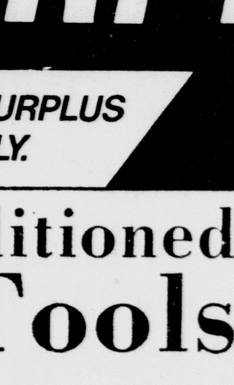

The closely-watched Dow average of 30 blue-chip industrials rose 3.27 points to 1,000.65, overcoming earlier profit taking that had taken it about two points lower. The average lost 2.46 points Monday when an early rally failed at the 1,000 level.

The over-all market showed a solid gain. Stanard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 0.43 to 103.86, the NYSE common stock index added 0.23 to 55.46 and the average price of an NYSE common share increased by 15 cents.

Advances topped declines, 802 to 587, among the 1,861 issues crossing the tape. The 472 unchanged issues reflected considerable investor uncertainty.

Volume swelled to 19,620,000 shares from the 17,490,000 traded Monday.

Off-campus class control before higher ed board

by JOHN N. FRANK

Recommendations calling for greater coordination of off-campus courses offered by state colleges and universities will be considered by the Illinois Board of Higher Education at its July 6 meeting.

The recommendations, which would require state universities to obtain board approval before conducting off-campus credit courses, would have little effect on programs offered by Harper and Oakton Community Colleges but would affect such state schools as Northeastern Illinois University in Chicago.

The report recommends:

- Board approval should be required of all university programs offered off-campus that could lead to a complete major at the off-campus location.
- Collaboration should be encouraged between post-secondary institutions serving a given community to meet student needs better and to avoid duplication.
- A review procedure should be instituted whereby the board would receive complaints of duplication from school presidents to prompt action to end duplication.
- Colleges and universities should support off-campus courses through a variety of sources.
- Community facilities, such as libraries and grade schools, should be used for off-campus classes.
- Off-campus students shoulld have access to library counseling and financial-aid services provided to on-campus students.
- The board should encourage the development of a cost study of off-campus instruction costs.
- The board should work with institutional representatives to develop regular procedures for reporting data related to off-campus courses.

OAKTON ALREADY IS doing everything the recommendations call for, said Arthur W. Klem, assistant to the president of the school, which serves Maine Township.

C. Patrick Lewis, a spokesman for the president of Harper College, said the report did not seem to present any problems for the Palatine-based college. Lewis had received a copy of the recommendations Tuesday and was preparing them for distribution to other members of the administration for closer study.

Vern Braun, Northeastern Illinois' continuing education coordinator, said having to obtain board approval for off-campus programs is a "ridiculous idea."

"How many drivers do you have to have to get something done?" Braun asked. State universities in the Chicago area already coordinate their off-campus programs, Braun said, and so he sees no need for board supervision.

Michael Smith, special assistant to the executive director of the board of higher education, said the report shows there is a need for coordination.

The report states that 42 per cent of all off-campus courses offered in the 1974-1975 academic year were in the education field. Smith says that many courses bting taught in an area that already has more job applicants than jobs is an example of needless duplication.

SMITH ALSO believes there is a need for complete data on the costs of courses being offered so schools wanting to start off-campus programs know how much they may cost.

Oakton's Klem said compiling such data is "fantastically complicated" because of the way costs vary from place to place.

Northeastern's Braun said, "If they'd take that money (used to compile cost figures) and just give it to the universities we'd be OK." Northeastern has cut the number of off-campus credit courses from more than 100 to 60 a tri-mester because of a lack of funds, Braun said.

Closed talk sought for Lynam case

Metropolitan Sanitary District Comr. Joanne Alter Tuesday called for a special closed session of the MSD board to decide what to do about district General Supt. Bart T. Lynam.

Lynam was indicted Monday along with two district commissioners by a federal grand jury in an alleged $1.2 million bribery scheme.

Mrs. Alter said Tuesday she has asked MSD Board Chairman Nicholas Melas to call the special closed session to discuss the "alternatives" the district has in deciding what to do about Lynam.

Mrs. Alter said she does not know whether Lynam should be removed from his post until after his trial. However, she said, "It is our duty to maintain the confidence of the public in the operation of the district. As a trustee that's what I'll do." Along with Lynam, MSD Comr. Valentine Janicki and Comr. Chester Majewski were indicted in the bribery scheme. State Rep. Robert McPartlin, D-Chicago, and four businessmen also were indicted.

Mrs. Alter said she will use the indictments as another argument in favor of an MSD board policy requiring financial disclosure by commissioners and high-ranking MSD employes. The proposal, which Mrs. Alter made months ago, has not been considered by the board committee to which it was referred.

Schaumburg's new Dem unit leases office

The newly formed Democratic Club of Schaumburg Township has leased office space at 10 N. Roselle Rd., Schaumburg, club leader William Shlifka said Tuesday.

The club, formed two months ago with the blessing of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, has taken a two-year lease on the office, Shlifka said. He said the length of the lease "should say something to people who say we won't last very long."

Shlifka also said the club is planning a picnic with the Palatine Township Democratic Club this summer. The Palatine Club is the Daley-backed rival group to the Palatine Democratic Organization.

DEMOCRATIC CLUBS in Palatine and New Trier were formed after independent Democrats took over the regular township organizations. The clubs are considered an effort by Daley to extend his influence into the suburbs.

Also Tuesday, Joan Brennan, of Elk Grove Village, Democratic candidate for the Illinois House from the Third Legislative District, said she has met with leaders of the newly formed club and had received their support.

Mrs. Brennan said she does not believe the club will be a rival to the regular township organization headed by Committeeman John Morrissey. She said, "The intent of the people is to help elect Democrats."

Mrs. Brennan is the "running mate" for Democratic State Rep. Eugenia Chapman of Arlington Heights, an independent Democrat. Mrs. Brennan has criticized Mrs. Chapman on a number of issues. Since the Third Legislative District traditionally elects two Republicans and one Democrat, Mrs. Brennan's candidacy is seen as an effort to defeat Mrs. Chapman.

New Centurions tackle old neighborhood

Mike Chiappetta—a good guy that won't finish last

by IRA BERKOW

In November a black family moved into an all-white Chicago suburb, named Forest Park. The local Welcome Wagon soon showed up at the Ezra Buckners' stucco bungalow on Ferdinand Avenue and flung bricks through the windows, set fire to the garage, painted "nigger" on the sides of the house, and telephoned with bomb threats.

The Buckners asked the town constables to call off the neighbors, who were killing them with kindness. The police had been "too busy" to help the Buckners much, but now drive down Ferdinand Avenue every half hour.

The nearby homeowners complained the Buckners were receiving "preferential treatment." So the cops went home, and the bricks came crashing back.

Mike Chiappetta followed all this in the Chicago papers. Chiappetta, a Chicago policeman who took a leave of absence this year to devote full-time to being president of his new Centurion Security company, winced for the last time when he read about a brick just missing the head of the Buckner's four-year-old daughter. He decided someone must come to the rescue.

The burly 31-year-old Chiappetta, with eyes at once warm and scrutinizing, called in "the troops." They included Mike's partner, the redoubtable John Corcoran, and ample Andrew Robinson, steady Eddie Thomas, the mighty Miguel, intrepid Decatur Miller, smooth Sam Castro, bad Bobby Morales, hawk-eye Augie Corso, Keith (Megilla the Gorilla) Pratt and several more worthies of various nationalities.

They agreed to volunteer their services to the Buckners, if the Buckners would have them. The Buckners did.

For the next two days, around the clock and without pay, the Centurions peeked out from behind the curtains of Buckner's home, investigated all household rattlings, and were photographed by the newspapers, interviewed on Walter Cronkite's evening news, received congratulatory calls from people like Jesse Jackson, and got hauled into the station-house by the Forest Park cops. At least Mike did.

But the goal was achieved. The cops, embarrassed by the attention, began to protect the Buckner home, and Mike and his troops trotted out.

A lot of people were skeptical about Mike's motives in this caper. But Mike has a history of suffering from a kind streak.

He had been for six years the cop on the beat in a Chicago ghetto. He earned respect and admiration there.

They all knew that if Mike nabbed you, he wouldn't put the cuffs on too tight, or pull your arms back too far, and before going to jail, would stop at Jimmy's hot dog stand for a bite, and ask if you want mustard and peppers and pickle, and a soft drink.

Once, Mike snuck up on two of the neighborhood kids breaking into a store from a roof. They looked up in the dark and one said, "Mike, what are you doing here?" He caught Donald, but the other, Earl, jumped off the roof and into a passageway and hid against the wall. Mike did not pursue.

Mike explained, "Anyone who has the guts to stand in a place where rats are as big as dogs, earns the right to remain there."

Mike was trusted. An elderly wino and friend of Mike's once suggested a business partnership with him.

"Mike, let's you and me open a newspaper stand on the corner here," he said.

Mike was heartened and pleasantly surprised that the old guy had a legitimate enterprise in mind.

"That sounds great," said Mike. "The only trouble is, you know nobody around here reads."

"Hey, no problem, Mike, it'll just be a front for a bookie and numbers thing."

Sometimes, Mike's kindness backfires, like the time he gave Dogman Bob a victorious Malamute. Dogman Bob is a recluse, who lives in a condemned house with about 10 dogs and a telephone. And the only one who ever calls is Mike, to wish him Merry Christmas. Dogs usually love Dogman Bob, and with happy yips follow behind as he wheels his shopping cart at night to get them food from garbage cans.

The day after Mike gave Dogman Bob the dog, Dogman Bob came to Mike and begged him to take the dog back. The dog got in Dogman Bob's bed and wouldn't let Dogman Bob in. Dogman Bob tried to shoo him away with a broom, but the dog began eating the broom.

Mike also has a history of taking unusual views of situations. Like the time he was being broken in on traffic detail with a veteran cop. The veteran stopped a speeder, who gave him lip. The veteran cop turned to Mike and said, "Call me a wagon." And Mike says, "Okay, you're a wagon."

With all this background, some of Mike's friends couldn't believe he was volunteering his services to the Buckners for the benefit of mankind. "Mike, tell me it's for greed," pleaded one of his friends.

And one of the Forest Park cops pulled him aside and said, "Chiappetta, level with me, do you really love niggers?"

The protean Chiappetta, who has been a palm-reader, a de-haunter of houses, a hairdresser, a boxer, and who has voted for George Wallace and Richard Nixon, thought for a moment.

"Naw," said Chiappetta. "I don't love niggers. But I like 'em more than I like you."

Bon Voyage bankruptcy crimps travel

A bankruptcy petition was filed in federal court Tuesday by the Des Plaines-based Bon Voyage Travel Agency, Inc.

The agency, one of the largest in the Midwest, has 19 offices in the Chicago area. Bon Voyage closed its doors Monday, after the Air Traffic Conference, a trade association of domestic airlines, withdrew the agency's authority to write airline tickets.

The closing of Bon Voyage Travel Agency, Inc., came after merger talks with Thomas Cook, Inc., the American branch of a British based group, were called off earlier this month.

Agency employes did not answer telephone calls early Tuesday and agency president Joseph A. Heitzinger could not be reached for comment.

THE MIDWEST CHAPTER of the American Society of Travel Agents is assisting customers who had booked tours through Bon Voyage. Although the group is not able to refund money, it is helping customers contact tour operaters and transportation carriers. Customers may contact the group by calling 236-4035 or writing American Society of Travel Agents, Public Service Office, Suite 1608, 6 E. Monroe St., Chicago 60603.

The office of Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott is handling complaints from customers who are not able to get a refund on travel deposits. Howard Kaufman, assistant attorney general in the consumer fraud division, said Tuesday he is "extremely interested in making every attempt to secure deposits" for customers.

One concern is that deposit money may have been paid by customers to Bon Voyage but not forwarded to tour operators and carriers. The amount of money in question is not known.

Kaufman urged customers to write to his office at 134 N. LaSalle St., Room 204, Chicago, writing "Bon Voyage" on the envelope.

Steve Martin, executive vice president for International Travel Service, which operates Pleasure Break charter tours to Britain, said Tuesday his office is trying to locate customers who booked Pleasure Break tours through Bon Voyage.

THE "VAST MAJORITY" of the tours are paid in full and are confirmed, he said, but there may be problems with tours that depart the end of August or in September. He said about 20 customers have been located who paid Bon Voyage but the payment either was not received by Pleasure Break or the checks from Bon Voyage will not clear the bank.

Martin said his office is working through the Civil Aeronautics Board to attempt to work out arrangements for these customers. He said the passengers on tours leaving the end of August or in September should send copies of checks written to Bon Voyage to Pleasure Break Travel, Room 1226, 104 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago.

American Airlines is making plans to assume obligations on tickets reserved through Bon Voyage. Passengers either would be refunded deposit money or given other arrangements, said Arthur Jackson, American Airline representative. Jackson said the airline will conduct an audit to determine whether Bon Voyage owes American Airlines money.

LEISURE EDITOR

"While it would be nice to attain the Woodward-Bernstein type of fame, I enjoy my job as Leisure editor. Journalism is basically the same in the suburbs as in a big city. Since leisure time becomes more important to people every year, I find it rewarding to give people some ideas on how they can spend their free time."

Karen Blecha is in charge of planning features for Leisure, writing some articles and doing the layouts for the magazine. Occasionally, she does some general assignment work for the news pages.

In 1970, Karen worked as a summer intern for The Herald and in 1971 began working full-time for The Mount Prospect Herald as a school reporter. Before assuming her present position, Karen was assigned to the newspaper's metropolitan staff as a general assignment writer.

Karen has won several awards for features on malpractice, death with dignity and homesteaders in Wisconsin. She graduated from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign with a bachelor of science degree in communications.

She says her most interesting interview was with Ray Kroc, the founder of McDonald's.

Execpt at Faith Lutheran Church

Few local repercussions foreseen in synod split

by SCOTT L. HAMILTON

Pastors of Lutheran churches in the Northwest suburbs predict little impact effect from the vote earlier this month by some English District churches to split from the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod and form their own synod.

The split follows a decade of controversy about how the Biblt should be taught and interpreted, with a climax in April when Missouri Synod Pres. J. A. O. Prevs ousted from office the English District president, the Rev. Harold Hect and three other presidents.

Two years ago, the majority of the staff and faculty of Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, left the campus in protest of the suspension of Dr. John Tietjen, seminary president, who was charged with teaching and promoting false doctrine on the campus. Dissidents established a seminary-in-exile, hardening the factional lines.

The Missouri Synod is considered conservative or fundamentalist in its approach to interpretation, while the English Synod has been more liberal or moderate in its approach. Conservatives endorsed literal interpretation, while moderates favor a less rigid interpretation.

IT WAS AGAINST this background the English District, encompassing 12 states, two Canadian provinces and serving 130,000 people, finally voted to split off.

The Faith Lutheran Church in Arlington Heights, one of the English Synod churches, will have to face an agonizing question this fall — and one of its two pastors may leave after the question is answered.

This fall the congregation will have to decide whether to go along with the vote of the English Synod to break off from the Missouri Synod, or to remain in the Missouri Synod and try to effect a change in the fundamental issues.

THE REV. WILLIAM J. Hughes and Faith's assistant pastor, the Rev. C. David Stuckmeyer both favor the moderate approach to Biblical interpretation. But Rev. Stuckmeyer favors joining the new English Synod, while Rev. Hughes favors working within the current organization.

"We are planning a referendum this fall to decide what direction the ministry will go," the Rev. Hughes said Monday.

"I want to work within the structure for change," he said. "(The split) is embarassing to us (the Lutheran church). It has hurt evangelism."

"It is an extremely tense time," said Rev. Stuckmeyer. "We have people in our congregation that have a full spectrum of views. In our church, it will be extremely tense."

THE REV. STUCKMEYER favors splitting from the Missouri Synod "to put the struggle behind us so we're not spending time on it."

But the Rev. Hughes does not feel the new synod is the answer to the problem and he feels strongly enough about it that if his congregation votes to go with the new synod, he will leave it to continue working with the fundamentalist point of view.

"I don't know what will happen to the whole movement," he said. "It's been more of a clergy control (dispute) than a lay controversy. I have a feeling the congregations are more conservative than the pastors."

The Rev. Herman C. Noll, pastor of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church in Prospect Heights, does not believe the split will affect his congregation.

"WE WILL REMAIN in the Missouri Synod," he said. "It has no impact on our congregation. There has been no promotion (of the new synod) in this church."

But, he said, the split will have an effect on tht synod as a whole.

"It splits up congregations and families, but I don't think it will hurt as far as carrying on the work of the church," he said. "It hurts the families."

Rev. Noll said those churches that feel they can't "carry on in the synod now have someplace to go.

"It's a sad situation," he said. "It's too bad it had to happen."

THE REV. CARL Thrun does not agree. As pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church in Rolling Meadows, he has been pushing for some kind of change since 1969 and with this one, he feels there is a new opportunity for ministry.

"I think it's probably very necessary at this point," he said. "I think the die is cast and for the good of the ministry, we have to stop the in-fighting. It's time we did more things that are positive than negative."

Rev. Thrun admits the split could be divisive for the church as a whole, but at Trinity, he said he anticipates little or no problem.

"I would anticipate that by fall or the first of the year, we"ll be part of the new organization," he said. "The congregation will have to decide. It has reacted very positively (in the past). We've been through these struggles."

REV. THRUN DOES not see any mass exodus from the Missouri Synod, a view shared by Rev. Hughes and the Rev. Kurt Grotheer of St. Peter Lutheran Church in Arlington Heights.

"I don't see a new church coming down the horizon that will be on the scene very long," Rev. Hughes said. "I don't think the split will be as large as some are predicting."

'Small potato' sets people thinking

Today

Mike Klein's people

The recently unveiled Presidential candidacy of one Nicholas Hubbard does not figure to disrupt the moguls later this summer when Democrats gather in New York City and Republicans congregate in Kansas City for the purpose of pomp and circumstance.

Those parties are likely to nominate persons named Ford or Reagan or Carter or Humphrey, and you would see Catp. Hook put out Tinker Bell's light before you witnessed either party nominating Nicholas Hubbard.

You might have missed a recent news item, which begins to explain this column. It came across the United Press International news wires and read:

"MOUNT PULASKI, Ill. (UPI) — Nicholas Hubbard, 80, owner of the Mount Pulaski Grain Co., announced Friday he is a candidate for president of the United States."

Many politicians desire the presidency. Hubert Humphrey has tried many times. And who knows to what zenith Lar "America First" Daly might aspire, if he could just win election to that first office.

Nicholas Hubbard has not held any elected office for more than 30 years, or since he served two terms each as a state representative and senator.

Now, he would be our President.

I spoke with Hubbard about that. Here is what he said, in greatly condensed version. Nicholas tends toward lengthy explanations, and cities many historical references.

Why is he running?

"TO SHOW WHAT'S wrong with this country," said Nicholas. He thinks we're all being taken down the river.

Things are getting so bad, that Nicholas has formed the "Three R's Party — Reformation, Restoration and Renewal."

First, the Reformation. "The government must be held up as an immoral lot," said Nicholas. He told UPI that our politicians are, " . . . of a very low status and spend the people's money . . . on things like drunkenness."

Nicholas also is concerned about secrecy. He would, "Burn all the rubber stamps which say 'Classified.'

"Mr. (Thomas) Jefferson said the electorate is entitled to know what the government is doing," said Nicholas. "Mr. Jefferson said that. President Jefferson, the biggest mind of the people who formed the country."

NOW, THE RESTORATION, back to a bonafide government as outlined in our Constitution.

"There isn't one word about any executive privilege in the Constitution," said Nicholas. "There is not one word that justifies them giving money from your pocket to a foreign government. They have no right to do it."

And finally, the Renewal, a rebuilding of our egos. "People feel helpless and deceived," said Nicholas, "like they can't do anything, very desperate.

"We must return the confidence of our people in themselves, and assert they are capable of running a Republican form of government."

INDEED, IT SEEMS we are woe-be-gone Americans. But how, I asked Nicholas, have we become so degenerate?

It's the Communists, he said. "They control two-thirds of Europe. They want a one-world Communist government. That's their goal. And we're headed for it."

Nicholas outlined their plan, as he sees it, through his interpretations of many historical studies.

"The conspiracy has reached the point where they have a definite plan," said Nicholas. "First, they will get this country so much in debt that we'd be like England or France and can't do anything."

NICHOLAS CITED OUR ever fattening national debt as one evidence of Communistic success.

"Second, they would furnish the money to elect corrupt politicians," said Nicholas.

For evidence of that, pay attention to your daily news dispatches.

"And third," said Nicholas, "they would change the education so that when Johnny gets out of high school, he can't do eighth grade reading."

Again, refer to your daily news dispatches. Already, schools are willing to grant diplomas to high school "graduates" who MIGHT be able to read at a ninth grade level.

Throughout our hour-long conversation, Nicholas cited mahy historical works. He said that we should learn through history, lest we repeat its mistakes.

NICHOLAS ESPECIALLY referred to William James Durant, the 90-year-old Pulitzer Prize-winning historian. Durant just shakes his old head and wonders.

"I will send you a press release he (Durant) gave about six or eight months ago," said Nicholas. "He said we are about where Rome was in 1060 A.D. She was beginning to crumble."

Any final thoughts, Nicholas?

To be sure! "Unless we get something done very quickly, we're going the same route as France, Italy, Spain, Portugal and Russia," said Nicholas. "Keep in mind that when the takeover occurs, the butchers always take over first."

And so it goes in the topsy-turvy political world of 80-year-old Nicholas Hubbard, who freely admits, "I'm a very small potato trying to get people interested."

Ho-hum holiday's no big bang for most o' these folk

Bicentennial or no Bicentennial, for many Americans it is going to be just another Fourth of July, with no special plans in the works.

A nationwide survey by UPI indicated many will celebrate the nation's 200th birthday just about the way they have celebrated all the others — with picnics, backyard barbecues, fireworks, and as little travel as possible.

"I hope my wife will let me rest, but she usually finds something for me to do," said a Little Rock, Ark., mailman. "We're going to take a trip to Houston, but it won't be on the Fourth because of the traffic."

Vicki Neighbors, a 28-year-old commercial artist in Kansas City, said water skiing, beer and "fireworks if I'm lucky" will be on her Fourth of July agenda at Lake of the Oazarks.

"THAT'S WHAT I do every Fourth," she said. "After all the Bicentennial stuff — we've had like two years of it now — for some reason this Fourth of July doesn't seem any more catastrophic or whatever than any other."

For Lanny Dreesen, a forester with the Texas A & M extension service in Houston, Fourth of July will be a time to get away from it all — but not on the highway.

"I'm leaving all the celebrating to the townspeople and going float fishing on a creek for three days," he said. "I'd rather fight the gators and log jams than the traffic."

Jack Woods, unopposed Houston candidate in November's general election for the never-before filled office of Harris County hide inspector, said he planned to ply his specialty among bikini-clad sunworshippers at nearby Galveston beach — after a bit of private celebrating.

"The first thing I'll do on the Fourth is sober up from the Third," he said. "Then I'll go to Galveston and inspect hides."

JACK NICHOLS of Shelton, Wash., said he and his wife will drive across the state's new north cascades highway and wind up in George, Wash., where "we're going to eat some of that big cherry pie."

For several years, the aptly-named little central Washington town of George has celebrated the Fourth of July by baking an eight-foot cherry pie. Citizens of George claim it's the world's largest cherry pie and they share it every year with anyone who drops in for a visit.

Another citizen — also aptly-named — Mrs. George E. Washington of Oklahoma City, Okla., plans an Independence Day ceebration in the old-fashioned way.

"My husband is a heart patient so we'll spend a quiet day at home," she said. "We'll probably make ice cream on the patio and a barbecue in the back yard. People from all over the neighborhood — they're the nicest people in the world — will be out here in my back yard. It's what we always do."

Fourth of July to be quiet day for Liberty Bell

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Neither the nation's oldest Liberty Bell nor its newest will peal a note on Fourth uf July, the nation's 200th birthday.

While thousands of bells from Agana, Guam, to Caribou, Maine, ring simultaneously at 3 p.m., the Centennial Bell in Independence Hall's tower will chime 13 times in remembrance of the 13 original colonies. But its cracked ancestor, just 100 yards away, will remain silent.

The Liberty Bell hasn't really made a sound since V-J Day Sept. 2, 1945. However, each Fourth of July the Sons of the American Revolution hold a ceremony and two children tap the bell lightly. They will do so again this Fourth of July.

The last two times the bell was rung a recording was made of the sound and electronically amplified.

"IT SOUNDS like someone kicking a 50 gallon oil drum half full of water," said Douglas Warnock, assistant superintendent of the Independence Park who has heard what he called an "eighth-hand copy" of the recording.

"The crack in it pretty well silenced it as a bell," he said.

Actually, the bell was not rung on those occasions. It was only tapped with a mallet hard enough to get an audible sound, Warnock said.

The bell split when it tolled for the death of Chief Justice John Marshall in 1835. Since 1976, its musical duties have been handled by the bell made for the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia.

The newest Liberty Bell is a gift from Great Britain to the nation and is already being called the Bicentennial Bell. It was cast by the same Whitechapel Foundry that cast the original bell.

ALTHOUGH HUNG in the tower of the Independence Park's Visitor's Center, it too will remain silent on the Fourth of July.

Officially, the bell will not be presented to this country until Britain's Queen Elizabeth arrives July 6 and makes the presentaton, so it cannot join this year's ceremonies.

The 15 minutes of nationwide bell ringing is being heavily promoted by the American Revolutionary Bicentennial Administration this year. It has its basis in a congressional resoluton passed June 25, 1963, declaring 3 p.m. as the official moment to celebrate the declaring of independence 200 years ago.

The resolution is based on the erroneous impression that the Liberty Bell rang on July 4, 1776, when the resolution of Congress declaring independence was passed. It really rang only on July 8, when the Declaration was read publicly at Independence Hall for the first time.

Grab a big net, head for a field, and get bugged!

One of nature's beauties lunches on the sweetness of clover, well hidden from the youthful collectors.

Ah, nature.

A walk through the woods. Sitting peacefully by the side of a pond. Enjoying the colors, the smells. Communing.

The secrets of mother nature are being discovered by third and fourth graders from Kimball Hill, Salk, Cardinal Drive and Willow Bend schools this summer in an Environmental Education course.

The youngsters have been busy snatching creepy, crawly things in nets to mount them on boards. The ingredients are all there — an open field, tall grass, enormous white nets, humid summer days and plenty of bugs.

But the catching is only part of it. Billy Hagedorn, 9, watches somberly as the collecting process nears its last stage, and his catch lies prone in an old peanut butter bottle.

There is nothing like an invigorating march through the brush and bramble in search of the perfect specimen for the chloroform bottle.

A Bumble Bee or a butterfly? Jens vonder Heide wants to be very sure before he sticks his hand in his butterfly net and pulls it out.

Qualifying method is suicide method in track

Jim Murray

For the second Olympics in a row, America is going to be without its best sprinters on the starting line of the 100 meters. The reason this time is not a misreading of the schedule (or of the international clock where "16:15 hours" does not mean 6:15 but 4:15) but the suicide method of selecting our teams.

There is very little doubt Steve Williams is the best sprinter in the country, maybe — in fact, probably —in the world. Perhaps you saw that recent picture of him looking back at his opposition in the dash. Now, when you can afford to look over your shoulder in 100 yards or 100 meters while winning, you are a once-in-a-decade runner. Only two Olympians in 40 years have won by daylight in the 100 meters — Jesse Owens in 1936 and Bob Hayes in 1964. And neither of them was looking back.

Steve Williams will still be the best sprinter in the world on Saturday, July 24, at Montreal. But, since he was slightly injured on the afternoon of Saturday, June 19, he won't be there. He pulled up in the 100 meters with a hamstring at Eugene.

You get 10 seconds to make the Olympic team in the U.S. It doesn't matter that you have been the world's best for four years; you have to be the world's best at 4:24 p.m. one afternoon in June — or you might just as well be the world's worst.

It's like picking a President of the United States on the basis of returns from some hamlet which is selected by a man blindfolded sticking a pin in a map.

Supposing the Super Bowl were chosen that way? O. J. Simpson would get one kickoff to make the qualifying standard. If he slipped, fell; if the kick were a squib kick, hard to pick up, or over his head — well, tough. The halfback on the team is the guy who runs the kickoff back farthest. Even if he turns out to be second string or a taxi-squadder with a limp.

What if you had one time at bat to qualify for a World Series? Babe Ruth hit 714 home runs. But Babe Ruth struck out 1,330 times. The chances are Babe Ruth would never play in a World Series if he had to be judged on one time at bat. His place would be taken by Ron Hunt.

Supposing Jimmy Connors got one serve to qualify for Wimbledon? Bobby Riggs would take his place.

No other country, no other sport, does what we do in the Olympics. Perhaps you noticed in the wire stories where John Akii-Bua, of Uganda, defending gold medalist in the Olympic 400-meter hurdles, pulled a thigh muscle Monday in Helsinki. His physician merely prescribed two weeks' rest. If John Akii-Bua were American instead of Ugandan, he would never defend his Olympic gold medals. Akii-Bua will be ready at Montreal. Can you imagine the Russians requiring Valeriy Borzov to prove himself in 10 seconds on a given afternoon?

Our trials should be branded mistrials when a man is judged on a flyspeck of his lifetime performance. Would you make Hemingway qualify for a writing pirize on the basis of one paragraph written to order with 80 judges looking over his shoulder?

The annals of our trials are filled with tales of spilled hurdles, spilled hopes, slips in runways, broken poles and broken hearts. It's like giving you one question in a bar exam after you've studied nine years.

It's not that it's unfair to the nation — although it is. It's that it's unfair to the young men and women. If Steve Williams tries to convince somebody 40 years from now he was the world's greatest sprinter in 1976, the evidence will be thin. They may dive for the Olympic record books where the evidence will be nonexistent. If he's got a gold medal in his living room, he won't even have to tell them. The guy who gets one should put an asterisk after it.

Herald names Zettek top area athlete

by BOB GALLAS

Scott Zettek doesn't do things half way and doesn't get discouraged either.

So maybe that's why he went out for wrestling, to keep in shape for the St. Viator football program last year.

He lost his first five matches that year, perhaps enough to get an athlete down, but not Scott. He came back to win his next 27 straight, before losing in the state meet.

That is typical of Zettek, this year's winner of the Herald's Athlete of the Year award. Whether in football or in wrestling, Zettek stands out from the crowd — through excellence.

Again this year, Zettek was outstanding in football and wrestling, so impressive that he's the first athlete to win The Herald honor who participates only in two, instead of three, sports.

In football this season, honors descended on the 6-foot-5 defensive end from every direction. Perhaps the highest tribute to his football prowess came from the school from which he received a football scholarship, a school known for taking only the best — Notre Dame.

Scott was honorary captain of The Herald's All-Area Defensive team and was co-captain of The Herald team. He was also an All-Conference and All-State selection.

On defense, the statistics speak for Scott's effort — 64 solo tackles and 58 assists.

Scott was a team leader and leadership is no stranger to the Zettek household. Scott's father, Charles, is Elk Grove Village president and was a football standout at St. Rita and later Marquette University.

Scott is very aware of his role as a leader.

"Football at St. Viator is more than just football. You're part of a select group and have to act responsibly," said Scott. "If you act irresponsibly, you not only put yourself down, but the entire team."

Perhaps his greatest triumph came in wrestling, a sport he didn't try until his junior year, and then only as a means to stay in shape for football.

Even though he didn't enjoy immediate success, he persevered and won 27 in a row. This year, he finished fifth in the state tourney and was recognized as among the best in the state.

"Without a doubt, wrestling requires more dedication than football," he said. "Iit's a grueling sport. It's a lonely sport.

"In football, when you make a mistake, the whole team can help cover for you. But in wrestling, it's just you and your opponent."

Scott will attend Notre Dame this fall and his plans include far more than just football.

"After I narrowed my choice down to six schools, football didn't play any part in my decision," said Scott, who will major in business education.

He does have one goal that concerns football, however.

"I hope to make the travelling squad," he said. "I don't plan on starting, but I don't think second string is an unreasonable possiblity."

Scott's ability on the football field is equalled only by his talents in the classroom. The personable Zettek ranks 90th in his high school class of about 275 and has maintained a B-average despite his involvement in sports.

For his size, 6-5, 230 pounds, Zettek moves well at the defensive end position thanks to decent speed (4.8 "on a good day" in the 40-yard dash).

Zettek says he's had fun playing football in high school and expects it to be fun in college, too. As for the pros — "that tends to turn me off. I could change my mind, but I couldn't see doing it as a profession."

Right now, he's concentrating at earning some money during the summer vacation, and is working two jobs, one in construction and another at a gas station.

Connors suffers Wimbledon upset

WIMBLEDON — Roscoe Tanner, serving with awesome power and hitting some soft junk during the rallies, sent favored Jimmy Connors crashing to defeat Tuesday at the $280,000 Wimbledon tennis championships to become the sole American survivor in the semifinal round.

Tanner's 6-4, 6-2, 8-6 defeat of Connors, the 1974 champion who beat him in straight sets in the semifinals last year, was the major upset of the 12-day tournament for Connors, who lost only 29 games in his previous four matches, appeared to be in unbeatable form on the sun-baked grass of the All England Club.

But Tanner, who fired 19 aces by Connors in one of the most awesome displays of serving the famed center court has ever seen in the late stages of the tournament, threw in some "little sloppy sort of shots" to make Connors appear unusually slow-footed and indecisive, much the same tactics Arthur Ashe employed in his upset victory in last year's final, and which Manuel Orantes used at Forest Hills in the final of the U.S. Open.

Tanner's semifinal opponent will be fourth seeded Bjorn Borg, the WCT champion, who showed no ill-effects from a groin injury in turning back his friend, Guillermo Vilas, 6-3, 6-0, 6-2 with a display of accuracy and top-spin hitting rarely seen on grass.

Tanner was the only one of 33 Americans to survive to the last four after unseeded Vitas Gerulaitis and Charlie Pasarell both fell.

Gerulaitis, who knocked off the top-seeded Ashe on Saturday, fell to Raul Ramirez, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4, and Pasarell's power was not enough for the superb all-court craft of Iile Nastase, who advanced, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3.

"I have never served harder than I did today," said Tanner, "but I also served intelligently. I tried to vary the pace of every serve.

"I played it very differently this year. I didn't try to match him for power. I tried to float the ball back and drop it short on him. I hit little sloppy sort of shots."

Connors refused to meet with newsmen and left the grounds in the company of his mother. Having lost in doubles with Nastase, his Wimbledon ended with his loss to Tanner.

In today's women's semifinals, Chris Evert will face her doubles partner, Martina Navratilova, and Evonne Goolagong meets Britain's Virginia Wade.

ROSCOE TANNER, left, shakes hands with dejected Jimmy Connors after Tanner triumphed 6-4, 6-2, 8-6 in a Wimbledon shocker Tuesday.

Tanana, Angels master White Sox

by BOB GALLAS

Frank Tanana, making his first appearance in more than two weeks, gave up a run in nine innings and scattered seven hits to dampen the White Sox' return home, 4-1, Tuesday night.

Tanana, out since June 14 with a strained muscle in his left forearm, handcuffed the Sox with a slow, tantalizing changeup and the South Siders played like they were handcuffed in the field too.

A couple of routine Angel fly balls were misplayed into doubles that eventually turned into runs. And the Sox could mount but one threat against Tanana, who gained his ninth win of the season against five losses for the Angels, cellar dwellers in the American League West.

"I really didn't expect to go nine innings after the layoff," said Tanana, who is now 7-1 lifetime against the Sox. "And I tried something different tonight too, staying away from the curve ball and going just with the fast ball and changeup."

Sox starter Francisco Barrios, who also went the distance, giving up four runs on nine hits, pitched well enough but didn't get much support. Now 1-3 on the season, Barrios got the starting assignment at the last minute when Rich Gossage was scratched due to a sore elbow.

Heavy rains prior to the game made going treacherous in the outfield and along the baseline, but the weather cleared at game time for a crowd of over 15,000.

The Angels got two runs early, courtesy of the White Sox outfield.

The veteran Tommy Davis led off the Angel second with a high fly to straightaway center. Centerfielder Chet Lemon turned one way, then the other, then ended up chasing the ball as it went over his head for a double. The Angels took advantage of the miscue and eventually turned it into a run when Davis came home on a base hit by Ron Jackson.

California added another run in the third, again through the benevolence of the South Siders. Andy Etchebarren hit a routine fly and it dropped in between Lemon and rightfielder Buddy Bradford while the two looked at each other. Etchebarren later scored on a sacrifice fly by Jerry Remy.

Tanana breezed along until the eighth when three straight Sox singles loaded the bases with nobody out. But the Sox couldn't take advantage and Tanana escaped the jam by giving up only a run.

Jim Essian's sacrifice fly scored Bradford from third. Then Tanana got Bucky Dent to fly out and struck out Lemon to retire the side and the Sox hopes for the night.

The Angeles added two insurance runs in the ninth when Dave Collins picked out a Barrios pitch and parked it in the right field stands with a man on to make it 4-1, California.

Ex-Sox third baseman Bill Melton, whose slumping bat had been out of the Angels lineup for a time, is starting again, but at first base instead of third. Melton, who has only three homers and is hitting around .200, has been replaced at third by Ron Jackson.

SOX SHORTS: The Sox have been notified by American League president Lee MacPhail that their protest of the June 6 game with Cleveland has been denied . . . Manager Paul Richards had contended that Indians pitcher Dave LaRoche's heavy breathing after coming to a stop in the stretch position constituted a balk . . . The White Sox have stolen 63 bases in 81 tries going into Tuesday's game while their opponents have stolen 77 in 108 tries.

Tonight is "Family Night" as the Sox continue the series with the Angels in an 8 p.m. contest . . . family members are admitted for half price . . . Batman and Wonder Woman will be on the field before the game and free comic books will be handed out.

Cubs' slump continues; Pirates coast

From Herald Wire Services

PITTSBURGH — The skid goes on . . . and on.

The Cubs lost another one Tuesday and the pattern was familiar. They're not even close anymore. They were bombed early.

Pittsburgh rode across eight runs in the first inning and breezed to a 10-1 victory, handing the Cubs their fifth straight loss and obviously making Chicago owner Philip K. Wrigley, who hasn't been too happy with the club, even more disturbed.

The Cubs now have been outscored 49-12 in the five-game skid.

John Candelaria fired a three-hitter and tripled in two runs during the Pirates' eight-run first inning. He yielded a ninth-inning home run to Bill Madlock and permitted singles to Jose Cardenal and Mike Kelleher. The Pirate left-hander struck out five and walked three in winning his seventh game in 11 decisions.

The Pirates took advantage of two Chicago errors, a passed ball and three walks during the big first inning and also stole three bases, including a double steal in which Al Oliver pilfered home and Dave Parker was safe at second.

Cubs' starter Steve Renko (remember Andy Thornton?), who lost his fourth game in six decisions, had early control problems, giving up walks to leadoff batter Frank Taveras and Richie Hebner. Oliver singled home one run and Parker another before the double steal.

Manny Sanguillen singled, Madlock committed an error on Tommy Helms' grounder, and then Candelaria unloaded his triple. Ray Burris came in for Renko and walked Taveras. Candelaria scored on a passed ball and Hebner singled in the eighth run.

Gilmore to Bulls in July? Stage set for draft

NEW YORK — If Artis Gilmore is to become a member of the Chicago Bulls, it probably will be in late July.

An agreement was reached Tuesday on the procedures for conducting the dispersal draft of the players from the Kentucky and St. Louis franchises which were not admitted to the National Basketball Assn.

Under the agreement to admit four new ABA expansion teams to the NBA, the Advisory Committee of the NBA agreed that the dispersal draft of certain players from the Kentucky and St. Louis franchises would be held as soon as expansion agreements are signed and the court gives preliminary approval to the proposed settlement with the ABA players and the ABA Players Assn.

It is expected the documents will be signed and presented to the court by about July 16, and it is hoped the dispersal draft could take place within a week after that.

It was agreed that the dispersal draft would be conducted in a manner similar to that of the college player draft whereby the NBA teams and the expansion teams draft, on a consolidated basis, in inverse order of their won-lost percentages at the end of the 1975-76 season.

Thus, the Chicago Bulls would get the first pick and the Denver Nuggets, one of the new ABA teams being consolidated with the NBA, would get the last choice.

The NBA and ABA representatives have given designed cash amounts to the players for payment to the Dispersal Draft Fund if and when the players are selected.

Gilmore, the star center of the Kentucky Colonels, had the highest price tag — $1,100,000 — while forward Marvin Barnes of St. Louis was designated at $500,000.

Kingman rips another home run

NEW YORK — The big bat of big Dave Kingman continues to make noise.

The 6-foot-6, 210-pound slugger, the pride of Prospect High School, slammed his 27th home run Tuesday night to power the New York Mets to a 2-0 decision over St. Louis.

Kingman's homer, a line drive over the left field wall, followed Joe Torre's double with two outs in the first inning and was his fourth in the last five games. Mickey Lolich got the win with a three-hitter.

Kingman's homer kept him 12 games ahead of Hack Wilson's home run pace when the Chicago slugger set the National League record of 56 homers in 1930. Only one player in National League history has hit more home runs than Kingman through the month of June — Willie Stargell, who had 28 through June 30, 1971.

Kingman will have a chance to equal Stargell's mark tonight when the Mets again host the Cardinals.

New York Jets sign Ed Marinaro

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. — Ed Marinaro, a former record-setting college star at Cornell, was signed by the New York Jets to a one-year contract Tuesday with assurances he will get all the running assignments he can handle.

Marinaro, 26, averaged 29 carries a game in college but was relegated to Chuck Foreman's understudy as a runner with the Minnesota Vikings. The 6-foot-2, 210-pound Marinaro played out his option year in 1975 and was a free agent when signed by the Jets for an undisclosed sum.

"It was four years of frustration with the Vikings," Marinaro said. "I really have no complaints about the club because you can't blame them for using a great back like Foreman instead of me.

"Running is not really an ego thing with me. I just think I have the ability to carry the ball. I'm grateful to the Vikings for teaching me two things I never had an opportunity to concentrate on in college — blocking and pass receiving."

Oklahoma QB dropped from team

NORMAN, Okla. — University of Oklahoma quarterback Joe McReynolds was dropped from the Sooners football roster Tuesday because of his arrest for allegedly driving under the influence of alcohol.

"After discussing the situation with the officials involved and Joe McReynolds, Joe and I agreed that it would be best for him to withdraw from the squad," coach Barry Switzer said. "This will allow him full time to devote to his personal problems."

McReynolds, who started in the Orange Bowl game, made his initial court appearance on the misdemeanor charge of driving under the influence of alcohol Tuesday. He had been released after his arrest on $1,000 bond.

McReynolds, 21, of Purcell, was serving a deferred sentence for the same offense.

The arrest Sunday was McReynold's fourth driving offense in about two years.

After his arrest in October for driving under the influence of alcohol he was dropped from the Sooner football team, but was reinstated for the Orange Bowl game New Year's Day.

Transfer, realignment in WHA

TORONTO — The World Hockey Association announced Tuesday the transfer of the Toronto Toros franchise to Birmingham, Ala., and a realignment of the league into two, six-team divisions.

A WHA spokesman said the Birmingham franchise would be known as the Birmingham Bulls and would play in the new East Division along with the Quebec Nordiques, New England Whalers, Cincinnati Stingers, Indianapolis Racers and the new Florida franchise in Hollywood, Fla.

The new West Division would be comprised of the Calgary Cowboys, Edmonton Oilers, Winnipeg Jets, Phoenix Roadrunners, Houston Aeros and a 12th franchise which has yet to be set up.

The WHA spokesman said the groups are still negotiating with the league for the 12th franchise — formerly the San Diego Mariners and now owned by the League — and an announcement was expected Wednesday.

Jane Gross, sportswriter

First lady of the locker room

by IRA BERKOW

When Jane Gross was a cub reporter for Sports Illustrated, she would phone her father, Milt Gross, the late, distinguished sports columnist for the New York Post, to seek — sometimes with a little shiver — his comments on what she had written.

She recalls once reading him "a very, very long story" about a female coach. Her father listened quietly. At the end, he said, "I have no idea what that lady looks like, no sense of the space she occupies."

Well, Jane Gross herself is 5 feet tall, weighs 100 pounds and takes up a sparrow's amount of space. However, the slight space she does occupy recently caused some tremors.

She is now a sportswriter for Newsday, the Long Island Newspaper, and, as one of its pro basketball beat reporters, enters men's locker rooms for post-game interviews. She is the first woman to be doing this kind of job. No other working woman in our culture regularly confronts male nudity other than strumpets and nurses.

A New York radio sportscaster, after absorbing his first wide eyeful of Jane Gross in a locker room, warned of a cataclysm. He compared her presence in the sweaty sanctum to the Fall of the Roman Empire. "The first symptoms of moral decay were carnal promiscuity and sexual lassitude," he said.

"How would she ilke to be interviewed in her bathroom?"

A male sportswriter in St. Louis posed his first question in an interview: "You getting your thrills doing this work?"

"I agreed to be interviewed, not to be insulted," Jane said as she rose and left.

She covers the New York Nets regularly, having begun a year ago March. The team took a vote whether to allow her in the locker room. They had just lost a game, and voted No. The coach admitted the timing was unfair. The next day, after winning, they took another vote. It was Yes. It's been yes ever since.

It is startling to view Jane initially. The players now are used to her, and casually undrape as she moves about them. She has short brown hair, grayish tortoise shell glasses that look large on her smooth, fragile-looking face, wears slacks and sweater and writes furiously in her notebook.

She may be looking for a particular athlete, doesn't see him, quickly checks the shower, and then the training room. She is dogged, and, at 28 and with some eight years of journalism experience, is a highly regarded reporter. Her boss, Sandy Padwe, says she is so capable that he would confidently send her to cover anything, from a P.T.A. meeting to a major trial.

The players treat her as a journalist, to the point where center Swen Nater, for example, blamed her reportage for the Nets trading him.

Jane Gross says that she never pushed to get into locker rooms. Before beginning on the beat, she would cover stories and the athletes she wanted to talk to were brought into the corridor. She never minded this.

"I'm not a cause person," she said recently. "I don't carry signs. I don't like to go places where I'm not welcome. And if I were to go into locker rooms and be treated like a freak, then it wouldn't be worth it. I couldn't do my job, and the 15 other people couldn't do theirs.

"The first time I ever went in, I scared stiff. I kept getting in places where there were six people around me. But I began to realize what a fellow sportswriter on Newsday had told me — that you really can't get the flavor of the players without seeing them in the locker room and the camaraderie they share.

"It is a beautiful thing, this closeness and lack of inhibition after great physical exertion. Most women rarely experience it. And I can see how men — even the most 'liberated' men — genuinely want to keep it sacred. It's so pleasurable, and it's something they've grown up with."

Then she witnesses little scenarios she would never have been able to see in the corridor. "Like Julius Erving's three-year-old son dashing over to Brian Taylor coming out of the shower and slapping him five. Or Erving making a spontaneous and emotional pep talk after a victory.

"It's no place to be a voyeur. It's sweaty, the jock straps are gray, and I'm on deadline."

For all this, she still is not one of the boys. In the New York Knicks locker room one evening, she was in the group interviewing Spencer Haywood. As she wrote, she had a strange sensation, like someone kissing her neck. She turned. Someone was kissing her neck! It was the Knicks' irrepressible guard Jim Barnett.

"I didn't want to disturb you," he said. "I just wanted to say hello!"

Jaycees, Sting plan special day

TEAMWORK. THE CHICAGO Sting and North and Northeast Regions of the Illinois Jaycees have joined forces for the Illinois Jaycees Children's Camp. Talking over arrangements for hhe July 18 game are (from left) Head Coach Bill Foulkes of the Sting and Larry Aniballi, Otis Allen and Tom Lester of the Jaycees.

The Jaycees and Chicago Sting have joined forces, and the real winner will be the physically handicapped and mentally retarded children.

When the Sting meet the Hartford Bicentennials on Sunday, July 18 in Soldier Field, the game will be designated as Chicago Sting/Jaycee Day. Starting time is 2:30 p.m.

The North and Northeast Regions of the Illinois Jaycees have decided to turn their dream of a summer recreation camp for handicapped and retarded youngsters into a reality through this project.

The two regions of more than 100 chapters and approximately 5,000 Jaycees already have received a financial boost from Lee B. Stern, owner and president of the Sting. Stern has donated $1,000 to the Illinois Jaycees Children's Camp.

Sting stars John Kowalik, who holds the record for most goals in a single season in the North American Soccer League, and John Lowey, an 18-year-old Englishman, have been working with the Jaycees in promotion of the event.

The Jaycees have set their goal to sell 17,000 tickets. Although the Camp will benefit at the 1,000 ticket mark, the greatest potential obviously is at a higher level.

As soon as the Jaycees sell their 10,000th ticket, the Illinois Jaycees Children's Camp collects one-half of all the proceeds, retroactive to the first ticket.

Tickets at $3 each may be purchased by sending a check or money order to North/Northeast Region Jaycees, P.O. Box 344, Palatine, Ill., or you may contact the Sting office at 332-2292 and ask for the Jaycee Special. Orders received after July 9 may be picked up at the Soldier Field Will Call.

In addition to he regular game on July 18, there will be a halftime exhibition between the Jaycee Jets and Celibrity Stars. The Stars will take the field with the Playboy bunnies, radio personality Dave Baum and many other Chicagoland celebrities.

Final Schaumburg signup

Final registration for the Schaumburg Athletic Assn. football and cheerleading programs will take place July 10 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the S A A house, 1307 Sharon Lane, Schaumburg.

The program is open to boys eight through 13 years old and girls entering grades four through eight residing within the Schaumburg Park District.

Fees are $30 for football and $15 for cheerleading. In addition, families are required to participate in the annual candy sale or pay an additional fee.

Head and assistant coaches are still needed. Those interested may call Chuck Stadler at 894-1351.

Cheerleaders will be notified as to which team they are on two weeks prior to practice, which begins Aug. 2. For further information on the cheerleading program, contact Judy Murray, 894-5908, between 3 and 5 p.m.

Cousy still plays against the clock

The last loud roar for Bob Cousy has dissolved into the lonely thumping of a basketball in an empty gym.

Cousy, the spectacular playmaker for the Boston Celtics from 1950 until his retirement in 1963, is now 47, graying, but still looking lean and taut and whippy. He still works out with a basketball in a gym, particularly in springtime.

Cousy plays alone a few times a week in Assumption College gymnasium which is only about a two-iron shot, he says, from his home in Worcester, Mass. There is for him still that sweet, nostalgic sensation of feeling the leather ball in his long fingers; he takes comfort in the sureness of the dribble and in the enduring pleasure of his looping shot finding its mark with an emphatic snap of net.

Cousy plays for another reason as well. Each summer he is invited to give basketball clinics at summer camps in the New England woods.

"When I demonstrate how to shoot, I'd hate to embarrass myself by missing," said Cousy recently, in an office in Manhattan where he is commissioner of the professional American Soccer League. He wore a short-sleeved shirt, tie and Ben Franklin glasses.

"And I can't go on my reputation, that's not enough credibility for the kids today. I mean, most of them were small children when I retired. So they don't even know what a Bob Cousy is."

Cousy in gray sweatsuit shoots by himself in the empty gym rather than entering pickup games. He says he has no interest in setting himself up as a target for younger players who, as in the old cowboy tradition, want to knock off "The fastest gun in the West."

"A lot of former pros just give up basketball altogether," said Cousy. "They feel that if they can no longer be as good as they once were, they don't want any part of it anymore."

The love for the game, the competitive urge and the remembrance of things past melded rather sadly for Cousy in 1969. He was coach of the then Cincinnati Royals, a young, at-loose-ends team. Cousy, who still scrimmaged with the team, felt he was in shape enough to go 6 to 8 minutes in NBA competition, to provide some court savvy for his club. He tried a comeback for seven games. The one that sticks most in mind was against the Knicks, who were seeking to break the NBA record for most consecutive wins — 18.

The Royals were slightly ahead with seconds left in the game. Cousy threw the ball in from out of bounds. It was intercepted and the Knicks scored and then won.

In the Assumption College gym Cousy employs a routine which lasts about 45 minutes. He'll shoot for 15 to 20 minutes. Then he will run laps for five minutes. Shoot for another 15 to 20 minutes. Five minutes more of laps. And repeat the shooting and finish with another five minutes of running.

Cousy says that he remains a competitor after spending most of his life honing the edge of that trait. He loves to golf for small bets, and plays fierce tennis. In the gym alone, he plays "21" against himself and the clock. He shoots from the top of the keyhole and then must get his rebound to shoot again.

"I shoot for five minutes to see how much I can score, and then I try to better it the next time," he said. "I've made 30 hoops in five minutes — which means you can't miss to many. Let one rebound go astray and you're out of business." The sweat forms quickly on his long, leathery face, with high forehead, bush brows, Gallic nose and gentle brown eyes.

Sometimes his mind will wander, he says. He thinks about his activities with the soccer league, and a dispute two clubs might be having over the signing of a player. He thinks about his work as a color commentator for Boston Celtic and Boston area college games. He thinks about money, about providing for his family. He says that although he is confident and fairly well-heeled, he still admits to financial insecurity.

"It probably comes from memories of my dad, who pushed a hack in Manhattan for 25 years before he saved up five hundred dollars for a down payment on a modest little house in Queens," said Cousy.

In the solitude of the gym he may also recall the roar of the crowd. He said, "It's a thrill that ripples through your whole body. You don't still crave it, but you certainly never forget it."

He experienced many such moments during his 13 years with Boston — helping the team win six championships — and as an All-American at Holy Cross.

As a man, he can reflect that basketball is still a boy's game, and so the links are to his earliest boyhood, when he played in the parks alone and dreamed of being a high school star.

Because he was relatively short, he was not picked for his high school team in his freshman and sophomore years. He did make it in his junior year. "I was so thrilled I could hardly breathe," he said. "And then the most traumatic thing of my life happened the most traumatic up to that point, anyway. I was declared ineligible. My homeroom teacher flunked me in "Citizenship' for talking. Now, the homerooms were so crowded that two people had to sit in one seat. I must have talked, but how could you avoid talking to someone who's in your lap?

"Oh, how I agonized. The coach was a strict disciplinarian and would not intercede. Well, I shut up and was eligible for the second half of the season. And in that first game — oh God! — I scored 20 points in the first half, 38 points for the game. And that was in the days when whole teams didn't score 38 points. I came busting out of the gate like a bull, I had been so frustrated."

FORMER BOSTON Celtic star Bob Cousy, now commissioner of the American Soccer League, still remembers the roar of the crowd. "It ripples through your whole body," he says. "You don't still crave it, but you never forget it."

Dist. 214 adds soccer programs

The High School Dist. 214 Board of Education voted 4-1 Monday night to continue the soccer programs at Hersey and Forest View and to initiate programs at the six other schools.

Arlington, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove, Prospect, Rolling Meadows, and Wheeling will each receive $3,600 to get the programs started. The money will be used for supplies, equipment, transportation and officials.

Because of the success at Hersey and Forest View, the other schools requested permission to initiate programs. The requests also came after the schools experimented with intramural soccer programs and assessed the potential participation of students.

Edward H. Gilbert, superintendent of Dist. 214, said the programs at Hersey and Forest View were experimental only in that the other schools did not have one.

"It wasn't set up deliberately for those schools to be the guinea pigs," Gilbert said. "We didn't choose those schools. The interest had developed and they requested that consideration be given to them."

The other six schools did not express interest until this year.

"There is a great deal of interest in soccer," Gilbert said. "It sounds as though, from the preliminary comments I've heard, those schools will have a goodly amount of people out for soccer."

Hersey and Forest View each had 75-100 boys out for the sport last fall, with 150-175 expected in the future.

E.R.V. Shoes wins softball tourney

The E.R.V. Shoes 16-inch softball team captured the Iowa versus Windy City Classic tourney Sunday at Marshalltown, Iowa.

The four best Iowa teams were matched in a single elimination tourney with four top teams from Chicago, including last year's national champs, Josef's. However, Josef's was elminated in the second game.

E.R.V. whipped Mr. Bubbles, Iowa's state championship team, in the opener, 19-6. The eventual champs stopped American Rivet Sobees in the semifinal, 24-9, and took the finals with an 8-2 decision over Marshalltown Pizza Hut.

Playing catcher on the Shoes team was Bob Campbell of Buffalo Grove.

Northern Amateur still within reach of 2 local golfers

Chris Marszalek and Steve Cisco need some super shooting today to contend for the Northern Illinois Amateur Championship at Midlane Country Club near Waukegan.

Marszalek, of Arlington Heights, and Cisco, of Palatine, improved upon their first-day scores. Marszalek put a one-over-par 73 on the scoreboard to go with his opening round 75. Cisco did even better, carding a 70 to go with his Monday total of 78.

However, a trio of players toured the wet Midlane layout (6900 yards, par 72) with five-under-par 67s — Tom Evans, Mike Soli and Phil Kenny.

Evans, of Northbrook, holds the two-day lead with a 139. Soli, of DeKalb, is at 140. Kenny, of Northbrook, is at 142.

Evans, the tourney runner-up last year, had seven birdies. Kenny led the list with eight, firing a 31 on the front nine.

Defending champ Keith Meyer, of Milwaukee, has a 146 total. He's followed by Marszalek and Cisco.

Other local players who made the cut at 156 are Tom Benjamin of Park Ridge, at 152; Len Fiocca, of Palatine, 154; and Tom Jacobsen and Rick VanderSande, both of Schaumburg, at 156.

Gary Hallberg, of Barrington, was disqualifed for improperly signing his scorecard. Hallberg, who played in the U. S. Open two weeks ago, carded an opening round 69 for medalist honors.

Santa Fe to offer plenty of fireworks

An explosive stock car tripleheader coupled with two nights of crowd-pleasing fireworks is Santa Fe Speedway's Fourth of July tribute to Chicagoland racing fans.

This dynamic three-day package of thrills and high-speed action, starting at 8 p.m. climaxes a thrill-packed holiday extravaganza featuring five nights of racing.

The "Bicentennial Special" — a dynamic double-day dose of auto power and fireworks — is set for July 3 and 4. Exciting quarter-mile late model and sportsman action, highlighting 30-lap late model features, is on tap for both nights. Included within this hard-charging auto package is Chicagoland's finest display of Fourth of July fireworks.

On July 5, Chicagoland's busiest motordrome hosts the "Spirit of 76 Stock Car Classic,' showcasing a 50-lap late model feature on the half-mile clay oval. Sportsman autos will comptte in a 30-lapper on that evening.

Santa Fe Speedway is located at 91st and Wolf Rd. in Willow Springs.

Scoreboard

Stevenson needs coach for wrestling program

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

The wrestling program at Adlai E. Stevenson High School in Prairie View is in trouble.

Stevenson principal William Papke said, "I would say right now that I have no alternative but to drop the program."

The reason, despite an increase in the number of boys out for the sport since it was started, is the lack of a qualified coach.

There just isn't anyone on the Stevenson staff qualified to coach wresting and there is only one opening still to be filled on the teaching rolls.

"If someone were to resign," Papke said, "then I'd be free to go out and recruit someone to coach the wresting team.

"But right now we're practically at one hundred per cent capacity with our teachers. We have only one opening and that's in home economics."

There was some discussion of a paraprofessional coaching the team but all coaches must be on the faculty at Stevnson and, as athletic director Hank Andrew remarked, "A paraprofessional on the staff would be a good idea but that is a stop gap measure.

"We need somebody to pull the program together. We've had two coaches in the last three years and coaching changes hurt the stability of the program."

The Stevenson situation is ironic in light of other schools that face elimination of programs because of financial problems.

There is adequate money to fund the Stevenson wrestling program.

There simply isn't room for another coach on the teaching rolls.

"We could go to the junior high schools and elementary schools in our feeder system," Papke said, "if we had the room.

"It just happened that most of the openings we had this year were for women."

The decision to drop the sport will rest solely with the Stevenson High School administration. However, when the Dist. 125 board heard of the possibility they were not pleased.

Board President William Swanson said, "The board indicated to the school that they were sort of unhappy with the decision to drop the sport.

"I think they should do some soul searching and try to find a way."

The lack of students intersted in the wrestling program was mentioned as a contributing factor to the problem.

"The numbers are increasing in wrestling," Andrew remarked. "We started with 14 or 15 kids and now that's up to 32.

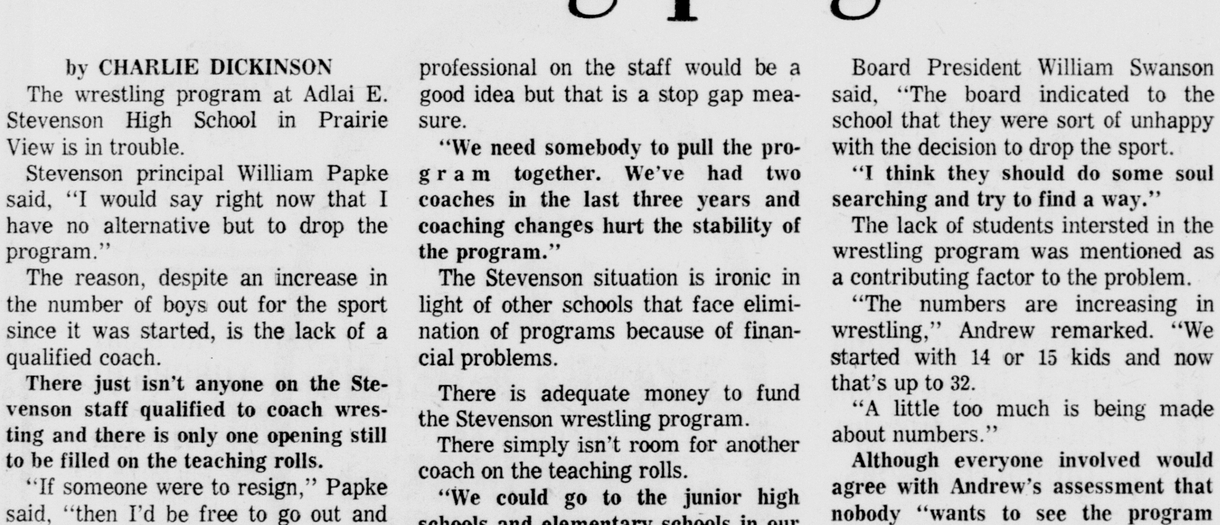

"A little too much is being made about numbers."

Although everyone involved would agree with Andrew's assessment that nobody "wants to see the program go" it seems inevitable that the sport will be sidelined this year.

"We have the equipment and we have the facilities," Papke said. "And we have a community where the school is the focus. Thirty per cent of our kids are in varsity athletics all year long.

"If we had to drop the sport this year that would certainly not mean it wouldn't be started again next year."

To appreciate spectacle

Statehouse visitors need strong stomach

by GENE YOACHUM

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — If you believe the people who watch the Illinois General Assembly from the visitors' galleries, proper appreciation of the spectacle requires "a strong stomach and a weak mind."

Many of the tourists watching the legislature near adjournment Monday found it difficult to follow what was going on and noted a lot of legislators appeared to be in the same boat.

"I think all citizens should come and see their elected representatives in action. Too many peple don't even know who their three representatives and senator are," Vera Barrino of Deerfield said while watching the House. "If you have a strong stomach and a weak mind, it helps."

"THE FIRST THING that hit me was, who's paying attention to the guy that's talking?" Mrs. Richard Schleeter of Plainfield said of the House.

"I didn't expect quite this much rudeness and inattention," Warren Trotter of Marissa said. "I've been to conventions and have seen this kind of action before."

"I don't know how they know what's going on," Mrs. Trotter said. "They all seem so busy doing other things — talking, reading and so forth. I think we would have to come more than one time to make an accurate judgment."

"I hope they do their homework," Trotter added. "It seems like every year the system forces some worthwhile bills not to be heard when they get to this stage of the game (end of the session)."

"I EXPECTED everybody to be sitting down, paying attention," Thusnelda Ferber said from the Senate gallery. "I thought it would be a meeting with a chairman and a lot of people wanting to talk."

"It's just sort of a mix-up," her sister, Cordelia, said. "What are they doing?"

Both are octogenarians and retired school teachers from Chicago.

At that time the Senate was "at ease," not actually conducting legislative business.

"Just cancel what we said about confusion," Thusnelda said after the Senate came to order. "They were probably in recess or something."

"First of all, it's hard to find out who's talking, then what they're talking about," Glen Dawson of Mascoutah said. "It's usually chaotic, I guess."

DAWSON SAID this was not his first trip to the statehouse, and was willing to comment on the recently completed $1 million remodeling of the Senate chambers.

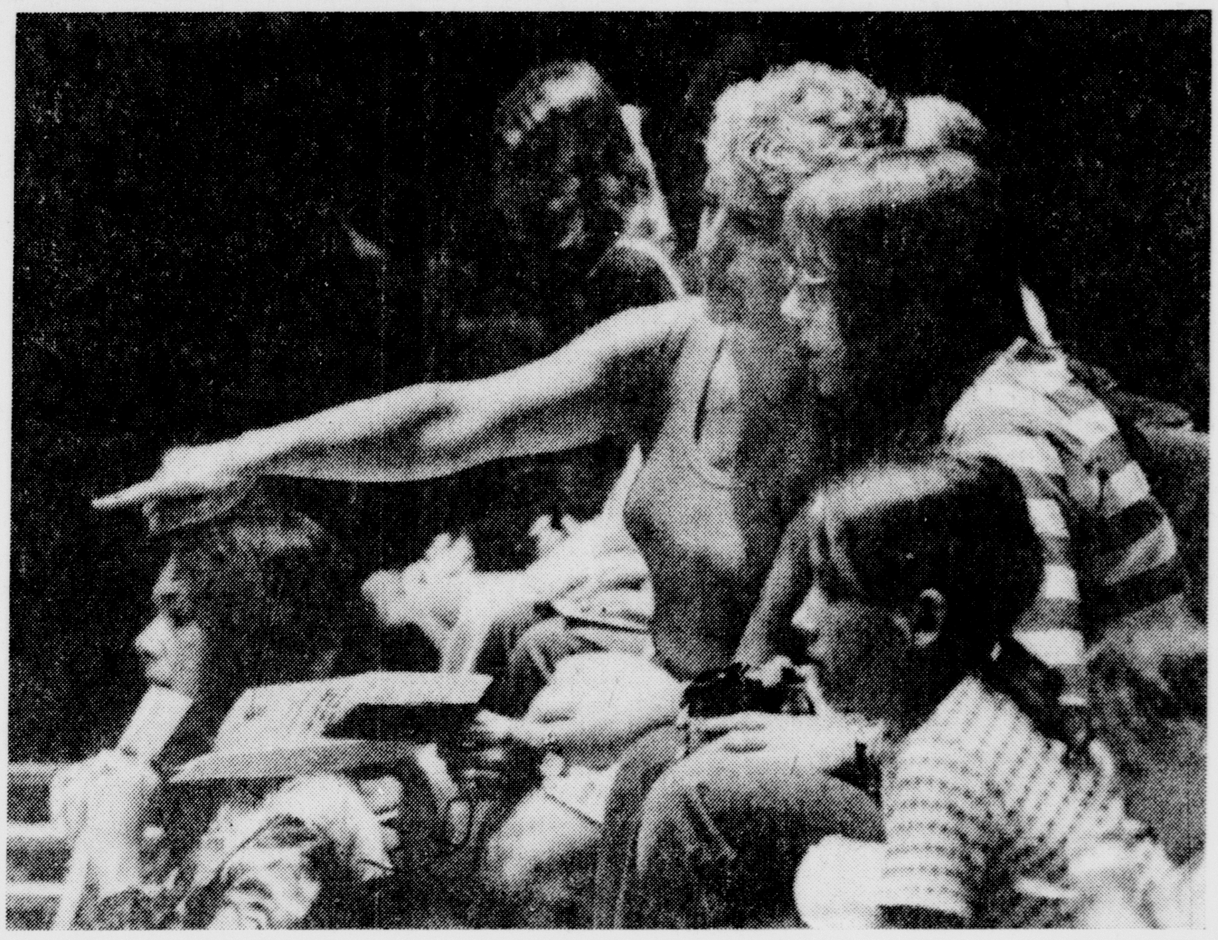

"It wasn't refurbished when we were here about a year ago, but it doesn't look too different," Dawson said. "It looks like they got a new carpet."

The renovation, despite Dawson's inability to see it, stripped the chamber to its bare walls and cost $1.2 million.

"I am very much impressed," Joe Baudino of Joliet said of his first trip to the Capitol.

"I never dreamed there was this vast amount of business going on in state government.

"I can see some of the men reading newspapers and such and wonder if they know what's going on," Baudino added. "I thought it would belike I had seen in debates on TV."

SPECTATORS WATCHING from the Illinois House visitors' gallery provides a variety of expressions as they observe the Illinois General Assembly as lawmakers work toward adjournament.

Plinkers, pitty-pats to echo in Mackinac

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (UPI) — Side-armed nature lovers will take aim at another world record July 4 in the Mackinac Open for stone-skipping enthusiasts.

For a 25-cent fee, anyone can grab flat stones and fling them across the water, attempting to amass the most number of plinkers and pitty-pats.

For the uninitiated, plinkers and pitty-pats are the two forms of scoring in stone-skipping.

Last year, Warren Klope of Troy, Mich., set a world mark of 24 skips (10 plinks and 14 pitty-pats).

The previous mark of 21 had been held by Carl Weinholdt of Copenhagen, Denmark. Eight other participants also bettered Weinholdt's mark.

The Mackinac Open's traditional top prize is a year's supply of local fudge and the Little David Trophy.

Organizers said each contestant will get six stones to throw — stones they have hand selected or provided by the sponsors. The most plinks and pitty-pats made by one stone, will constitute the entrant's score.

The contestant however, will get no additional stone if one sinks immediately, known as a plonk-out, or sails away without ever touching water, which is termed a skronk.

This year's events, as in the past, are sponsored by the Mackinac Island Stone Skipping and Gerplunking Club.

Wow of a weekend at Indian gathering

If you'd like to celebrate the Bicentennial this July 4 in a meaningful way, put it in perspective by joining some original Americans whose heritage makes our 200-year-old nation seem like an infant.

The annual Gathering of the Tribes pow-wow, hosted by Wisconsin's Lac Court Oreilles Ojibways, will be held Saturday through Monday at Historyland, Hayward, Wis.

One of the rgest Indian gatherings in the Midwest, this pow-wow attracts members of the Sioux, Ottawa, Winnebago, Pottawatomie, Menomonee, Oneida and Mesquaki tribes from all over the central U.S.

Young and old alike, dressed in colorful tribal costumes, compete in this native song and dance competition and vie for $1,000 in prize money. Performances start at 2 p.m and 8 p.m. July 3 and 4, at 2 p.m only July 5.

Admission is $2.50 for adults and $1.25 for children under 12. Weekly pow-wows will be held at 8 p.m. each Tuesday starting July 13 for the remainder of the summer.

Richardson to speak at Young fund-raiser

U.S. Commerce Sec Elliot Richardson will be the featured speaker at a July 16 fund-raising dinner for Republican 10th District congressional candidate Sam Young.

The $100-a-plate dinner will be at Allgauer's Fireside Inn, Northbrook, beginning at 6:30 p.m. Reservations are available through Young's campaign office, 673-8676.

Richardson is former defense secretary, former U. S. attorney general, former secretary of the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare and former NATO ambassador. He has been mentioned as a possible vice presidential candidate for President Gerald Ford.

Brademas at Mikva dinner

U. S. Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., will be the guest at a fund-raising reception for U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, July 7.

The reception will be at Marina City Restaurant, Chicago, from 5 to 7 p.m. Information on the event is available from Citizens for Mikva headquarters in Evanston, 492-1120.

Brademas is deputy majority whip in the U. S. House and has been a leader in the congressional effort to cut off American arms sales to Turkey following the Cyprus invasion. He also is chairman of the select subcommittee on education.

Porter on car repair panel

State Rep. John Porter, R-Evanston, has been appointed to a special Illinois House subcommittee to investigate auto repair abuses.

The investigation was ordered last week by House resolution. Porter said the subcommittee will meet during the summer and fall to decide whether to recommend state regulation of the auto repair industry.

Financial report law urged

U. S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th has called for Congress to enact a law requiring local governments to give full disclosure of their financial condition before selling bonds.

Crane said the law would prevent cities in bad financial condition from borrowing additional money and getting deeper in debt. He said the problems of Washington, D. C. and New York City point up the need for such legislation.

All property tax bills in the mail

All property tax bills have been mailed to residents of Cook County, with payment due Aug. 2, Cook County Treasurer Edward J. Rosewell said.

Rosewell said all tax bills should be received by July 1. He said any property owner who does not receive a tax bill by that time should contact the treasurer's office, 443-7930.

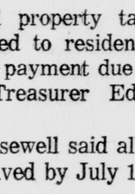

The bills are the second installment of the county real estate tax bill. The first installment was sent out last spring.

EPA puts 45 pesticides on possible banned list

by MONICA WILCH PERIN

Forty-five pesticides, including several commonly used around the home and garden and readily available in gardening stores and supermarkets, have been marked by the Environmental Protection Agency for possible banning.

The 45 pesticides were singled out from 32,500 — the total number in use in the U. S. — because of questions about their safety. Some have already been severely restricted due to their toxicity.

The list is part of a massive program by the EPA to review all 32,500 pesticides and reregister those considered safe enough to continue using. The review and reregistration was required by Congress in a 1972 amendment to the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act and must be completed by October of next year.

EPA OFFICIALS emphasize that not all of the 45 pesticides will necessarily be banned. On the other hand, some pesticides not now on the list may eventually be added to it.

The statutory standard for determining whether a pesticide will be reregistered is whether or not it will cause unreasonable adverse effects on man or the environment. All pesticides have been classified by EPA in one of four categories:

- Those for which all necessary data for reregistration is on hand.
- Those requiring long-term studies, which will be given temporary reregistration until such studies are compieted.
- Those for which short-term data is needed and will not be reregistered until it is provided by the manufacturers.
- Those which exceed the agency's risk criteria and which will not be reregistered unless the manufacturers can prove: that the EPA erred in its judgment; the risk can be reduced to an acceptable level; or that the benefits outweigh the risks. This is the category of the 45 pesticides.

Before cancelling a pesticide, however, the EPA must also consider the impact on agricultural economics and the availability of substitutes. The law also provides an alternative short of cancellation for dangerous pesticides. They may be classified as "restricted," meaning they can only be used by certified applicators. The EPA could also request additional long-term studies on some of these pesticides and give them temporary reregistration in the meantime.

THE LIST OF 45 includes such home-use pesticides as strychnine, sold for use against rodents; DDVP, better known as Shell's Vapona No-Pest strip and contained in Shell's ant and roach insecticide;

Carbaryl or Sevin, produced by Union Carbide and contained in such products as Ortho Rose and Floral Spray and Ortho Sevin Garden Dust; arsenic, in many insect and plant killers, including Ortho Crab Grass Killer;

Rotenone, found in Ortho rose spray and tomato dust; perthane, an ingredient in Johnson's Raid Moth Proofer; and piperonyl butoxide, an ingredient in Shell Flying Insect spray and Raid wasp and hornet spray.

DDVP HAS BEEN controversial ever since it was first registered by Shell in 1963. A U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) pharmacologist in the pesticide division, which was then responsible for registration, said it was not safe and if registered at all should bear the poison insignia of skull and crossbones.

He was overruled by the pesticide division chief, who registered DDVP — and later left USDA to take a position with Shell.

During the 1960s complaints of DDVP's toxicity came from the U. S. Public Health Service and other sources, and various studies and hearings took place. But DDVP stayed on the market — and its safety data was never made public.

IN APRIL OF this year, Dr. Lawrence R. Valcovic, a genetics specialist in the National Institutes of Health, told the EPA that human exposure to DDVP should be avoided because it may damage human genetic material.

About 12 million DDVP pest-strips are sold annually. Some 14 million persons are estimated to be exposed to the strips in their homes.

Carbaryl or Sevin is registered for use on nearly every conceivable fruit and vegetable, on many farm crops, on livestock, against mosquitoes and gypsy moths, on ranges and in public buildings, and on humans and pets. The U. S. government alone uses 1½ million pounds of it annually, according to a Defense Department compilation.

BUT A 1969 report on pesticides and the environment commissioned by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare listed carbaryl as definitely teratogenic — causing birth defects — and said human exposure should be prevented.

In 1974 the Federal Trade Commission ordered Union Carbide to stop advertising Sevin as "safe, non-toxic and hazard-free."

A herbicide formerly available to homeowners and used by the U.S. in Vietnam is another on the list. The compound, 2,4,5-T, gained notoriety in 1969 when reports began to surface of birth deformities in Vietnam where it was being sprayed. At the same time a U. S. laboratory reported to the National Cancer Institute that 2,4,5-T caused a high rate of birth defects in animals.

THE HAZARD IN 2,4,5-T is a contaminant, dioxin, which apparently cannot be completely eliminated. EPA's chief of toxic effects termed it "by far the most toxic chemical known to mankind" during 1974 Senate hearings.

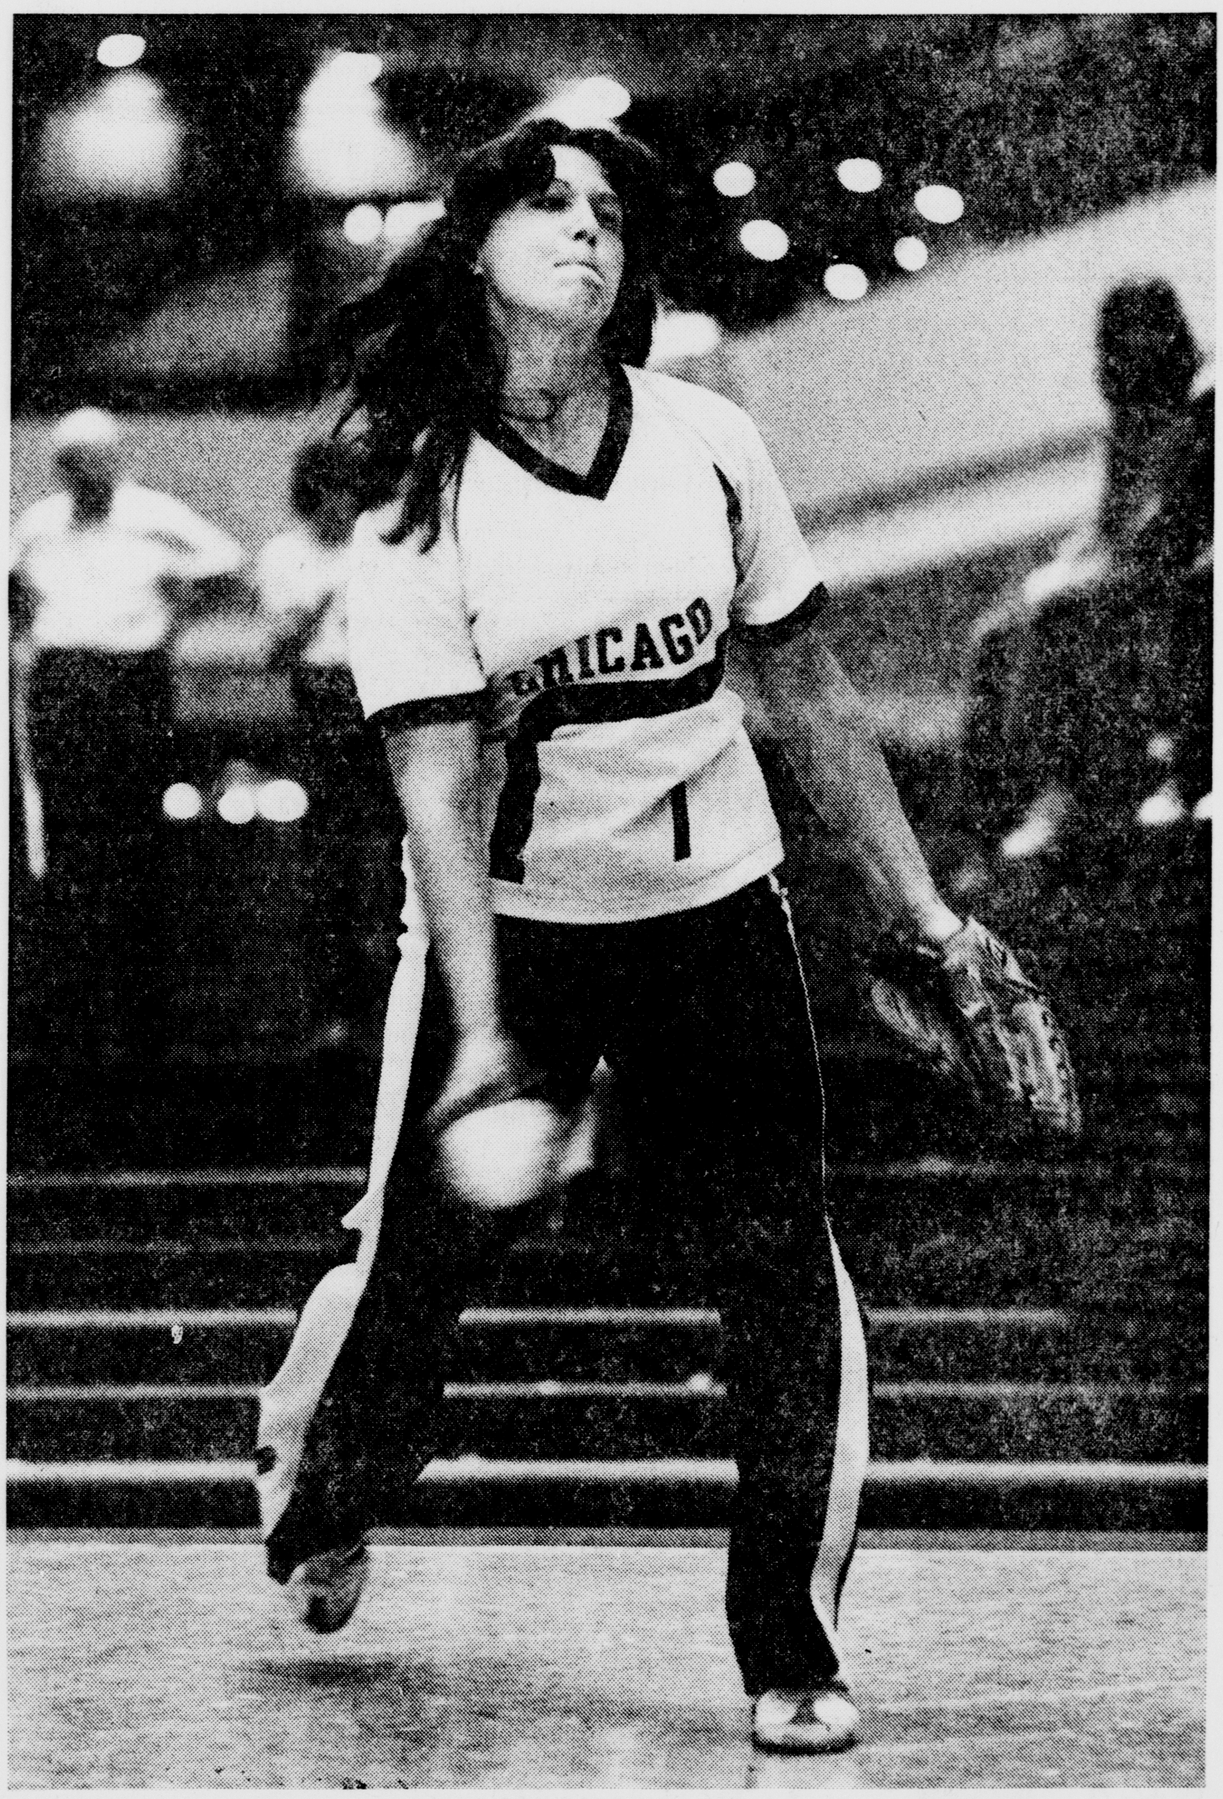

In 1970 USDA ordered a ban on 2,4,5-T for home use, and it has since been further restricted by EPA for use only on pasture and rangeland, much of which is under government supervision. But the government refuses to disclose how much 2,4,5-T it is now using.

Four pesticides previously on the list have already been processed. One was returned to normal reregistration channels. The second, kepone, has been withdrawn from production by its manufacturer, Allied. Producers of the other two, chloroform and chlorobenzilate, are now submitting data to EPA.

THE NEXT pesticide scheduled to be called up for special review is endrin, listed by EPA in 1973 as a "toxic (water) pollutant." Highly toxic to fish, endrin is used on a number of crops including wheat.

Two pesticides which the HEW Commission in 1969 urged should be restricted from human exposure because they are teratogenic are not on the list. Both of them, captan and 2,4-D, are commonly found in home-use pesticides and weed killers. In addition, 2,4-D is the top pesticide in federal government usage — three million pounds a year.

Three pesticides were already involved in cancellation hearings when the EPA reregistration review began. They are mirex, mercury and chlordane, the last a compound available to homeowners. The Environmental Defense Fund recently lost an effort to prevent chlordane from being sold until a decision is reached.

FAST PITCHES aren't the private domain of men, as Chicago Ravens pitcher Sue Sinovich demonstrates. Sue says she can hurl the ball "a good" 90 miles an hour. A St. Louis native, Sue was recruited to play on Chicago's first professional women's softball team. The league was organized this spring.

Softball

Ravens demonstrate they're not softies on the diamond

by LAURA SCHMALBACH

The Chicago Ravens admit they haven't quite hit the limelight yet. The crowds are sparse, the money isn't the greatest, and most people think they're a bunch of muscle-bound Amazons trying to throw straight — until they see them play.

Then, the reaction is like that at Woodfield Mall recently as the area's first women's professional softball team showed their stuff in a demonstration clinic. As a cluster of Little Leaguers watched in disbelief, the pretty young pitcher tossed back her hair, started her windup, and let loose with a throw that drew a chorus of "wow, it must a been a hundred miles an hour!"

That pitch wasn't an isolated incident, either — the Ravens have been surprising quite a few sports fans since the team's debut in March. One of 10 newly-organized International Women's Professional Softball teams in the country, the Ravens are facing a tough schedule of 60 home games and 60 road contests this summer.

THE 19-MEMBER team was chosen from a field of almost 400 hopefuls, with most of the women drafted from St. Louis and Texas. The majority of Ravens have been playing softball in amateur leagues for at least 10 years, and the compensation for their talent ranges from $800 to $1,200 a month, May through September.

Just who are these women who earn whistles of approval for their fast balls and quiet awe from two Hoffman Estates girls on a high school team of their own? One thing's for sure — they may be talented athletes, but they're not the six feet tall, get-out-of-my-way type.

All the team members are single because, as one explained, "a husband would be crazy to put up with our schedule for three months." With one or two exceptions, the women are physical education teachers who are off during the summers, but "hard slugging Amazons" is a real misnomer.

AS THE 22-YEAR-OLD pitcher Sue Sinovich puts it, "Sure, the guys call me a jock, but they think it's great. I was petrified I'd run into a bunch of masculine girls, but it's not that way at all."

"The equipment firms keep sending us large and extra large uniforms when we really need small," adds Connie Peterson, an outfielder who made the Olympic trials in track and field before concentrating on softball.

"I suppose people come to our games the first time expecting to see a bunch of women trying to throw a ball, but once they're here, we've got them hooked," she says.

The game rules are basically similar to the men's game with a few minor exceptions, says Peterson, the head of athletics at Danville Junior College in the off-season. Yet while the game may look the same from the press box, on the field there's "a world of difference," she says.

"At a baseball game, you see the guys wander out to the field . . . we really hustle out there. There's a lot more excitement when we play, and the men are very surprised at the skill level," Peterson says.

THE CREATION OF a national, professional softball league for women will help fill a gap in women's sports and provide an outlet after college for talented athletes, Peterson adds.

"Most of the emphasis in women's sports has been on individual competition, but we're seeing more of an opportunity for women to compete on a team basis and follow through after school," Peterson says.

And while more women will join team sports as the money comes up to the men's level, the Ravens are already an inspiration to at least two young softball hopefuls.

"I've been playing ever since I could pick up a baseball bat," said Leisa Schmidt, a Hoffman Estates high school senior who was admiring the pitching. "It's great to have teams like this one . . . it would be a dream to try out. At least there's something to work for."

A positive side to do-it-yourself divorce

Are there two sides to the do-it-yourself divorce question?

Yes, there are, says B.A. and since I did not present the one that favors do-it-yourself, she believes I owe my readers an explanation of it.

B.A. recently completed a do-it-yourself (pro se) divorce. She had attended a divorce clinic in Chicago, the one to which Legal Aid refers its clients. Her court fees were only $42, and she says, "Assets can be divided prior to filing the complaint, and questions of alimony, child visitation and support and custody can be settled prior to filing, if both parties agree. Then a statement is made in the testimony regarding settlement of these matters."

That was the procedure she followed.

BUT SHE failed to mention in terms of money the time spent in the clinic and divorce court.

She also said that there were "many people attending the clinic with me and I have no reason to believe any of them had too many problems to obtain a pro se divorce."

I agree. It can be done. But as I pointed out in the May 12 column, it's the possible consequences that bother me.

I wonder, B.A., if you have any idea of how many persons who obtained pro se divorces had to hire lawyers later on to correct their mistakes?

Here's a case in point, a quote from Dear Abby's column (May 31).

"...You said 'some of those do-it-yourself divorces are more expensive in the long run than the regular kind. See a lawyer!' My wife and I decided we didn't need a lawyer because we agreed to everything. It was true. We agreed on everything we could think of.

"THE PROBLEM was that there were 4 or 5 important things we didn't think of. What a mess! We made no absolute provisions for community property and nothing was done about spousal support or alimony. Visitation rights were not clean cut and we ended up with an unfair divorce.

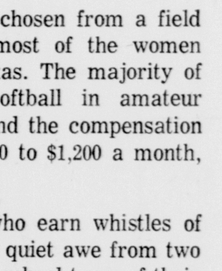

"I wish I had written to you before I decided to save a few dollars on a do-it-yourself divorce. — Foolish in Md."

Abby replied, "It's strange that when a person has a physical problem, he goes to a physician and is glad to pay him for what he knows, but when he has a legal problem, he resents paying a legal fee. A competent lawyer is worth every dime he charges."

(Readers are invited to submit questions regarding legal problems of women and children. Names and facts that would identify the writer are withheld on request. Attorney Martoccio's column is to inform and not advise. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Women and children first

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Diabetics should avoid all alcohol

Should diabetics drink alcoholic beverages?

I don't think so. Diabetes may cause liver damage anyway because the liver can't use glucose normally and tends to become a fatty liver. Also, alcohol can cause low blood sugar by literally using all the enzyme in the liver that would normally be used to convert proteins to glucose. This can make it difficult or impossible to regulate insulin dosage. Finally, for those diabetics who have a mild disease that can be controlled by weight control, alcohol makes it difficult to diet and eliminate or prevent obesity. I can't think of a single good thing alcohol does for a diabetic.

To give the more information on how alcohol affects the body, I'm sending you The Health Letter number 1-4, Alcohol, Whiskey, Gin, Vodka, Rum, Wine, Beer. Others who want this information can forward 50 cents for it along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Will you please tell me what can be done for a person who falls asleep as soon as she sits down. This person is in her late 50s. It makes no difference how many people are sitting around visiting, in no time she is asleep. Is this called narcolepsy? Will it get worse as she gets older? Can anything be done for it and is it serious? She can work all day and appears well. One time she just passed out and fell. We are very worried about this. She has been this way for several years now.

One doctor prescribed pep pills, but her eyes looked terrible so she quit taking them. I think it was Benzedrine.

Yes, you are describing narcolepsy. There is, of course, a dividing line between normal drowsiness and constant severe sleepiness which is classified as narcolepsy.

The cause of narcolepsy is unknown, but it does occur in both men and women and it often begins in adolescence although it can begin later in life. Once it starts, the individual will continue to have excessive drowsiness throughout life unless it is treated. In some individuals it is progressive. They may start out just having trouble with being drowsy during lecture periods and during social events or when they are presumably visiting with friends. The episodes may become more frequent and longer to the extent that some individuals sleep a good part of their life away.

These people often are able to avoid danger such as a car wreck because they can feel the sensation of drowsiness occurring and can pull to the side of the road if they are driving or stop any other activity they might be doing which would be hazardous.

There are no significant physical findings or other symptoms in individuals who have narcolepsy. The diagnosis is usually made on the basis of the story of the illness plus the absence of any other important medical findings.

It is not at all surprising that this lady was given pep pills. That's a standard treatment. Perhaps the two best forms of treatment are Dexedrine and Ritalin, both of which stimulate the brain.

For mild forms some individuals do well by drinking lots of coffee during the day. The caffeine in coffee is a cerebral stimulant and has actions similar to Dexedrine.

Curry powder gives chicken salad a lift

Dear Dorothy: One of my most favorite dishes is chicken salad, but I notice the family doesn't share my enthusiasm. Occurs to me you might have ideas on what one can do to the regular combination of chicken, eggs, celery and mayonnaise to spice it up.—Ellen Cheney.

The easiest, quickest way to give chicken salad a lift is to give it a tiny sprinkling of curry powder. A better way to make converts is to marinate a chicken overnight in a combination of orange juice and French dressing, then bake next day as usual. It makes a delicious meal. Any leftover chicken gives the salad real zest. Other ways are to vary the dish by adding seedless grapes one time, capers another, or sliced, pitted black olives. Mixing the mayonnaise with sour cream makes for a deliciously different flavor — and when a salad is garnished with toasted, slivered almonds or salted pecan halves, it's a dish to entice even a jaded appetite.

Dear Dorothy: A pair of white shoes has black marks along the inside of each shoe, probably the result of hitting each other. How do you remove such marks?—Mrs. Jeanne Treadway

One way is to spray with one of the popular wall sprays. Nail polisy remover is often effective, using a soft cloth. And have you tried regular white shoe polish? This ought to work.

Dear Dorothy :We have a window that looks as if it had been painted shut. What do you do in a case like this?—Marty Crawford

This is a job requiring both strength and patience. Use a sharp putty knife and run it carefully alongside the jamb, cutting it away from the sash, top to bottom. Eventually you will feel it come free. Then rub on soap or use a silicone spray in the channel. Technical name for the channel is rabbet!

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Class

Surprise party celebrates 50th wedding anniversary

George and Alice Class, natives of Des Plaines who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary earlier this month, were feted at a surprise buffet supper and reception in the home of their daughter and son-in-law, the Victor Amlings of Mount Prospect.

The Classes, who have been Mount Prospect residents since 1955, were married June 12, 1926, in Des Plaines, and on June 12, 1976, shared their anniversary with 35 friends and relatives. Through the years they have watched the progress and growth of both Des Plaines and Mount Prospect and they have many memories of the towns from earlier years.

BOTH GEORGE, son of Alma and George Class, Des Plaines, and Alice, daughter of Alice and Dwight Cowlin, Des Plaines, attended Des Plaines schools. They met at a St. Patrick's Day party is 1921.

An office machine mechanic, George retired in 1970. The couple reared two daughters, Mrs. Amling and Mrs. Roger Davies, who lives in South Bend, Ind. They also have six grandchildren.

Women of the Moose install officers

It was a big night for Des Plaines Women of the Moose 835 last Saturday as nearly 200 persons witnessed the installation ceremonies for the new officers and ritual staff.

Among honored guests were chapter members of the College of Regents as well as all the officers of the Moose chapter with their emblems of office.

The following elected officers were installed: Rose Stopak, senior regent; Laverne Schefko, junior regent; Gloria Spitzer, junior graduate regent; Dorothy Tucker, recorder; Diane LeFevre, treasurer; and Irene Sauer, chaplain. Installing officer was Kathryn Richter.

The ceremonies were followed by an evening of dancing.

Weddings

Valarie Ann Glos— James Lee Jarocki

After their wedding May 22 in Streator, Ill., 2nd Lt. and Mrs. James Lee Jarocki drove to the West Coast to make their home near Mather Air Force Base at Sacramento, Calif.

Jim, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley W. Jarocki of Rolling Meadows, is in a navigator training program at Mather.

He and the former Valarie Ann Glos, who met while attending the University of Illinois, were married in a double ring ceremony in St. Anthony Church, with a buffet reception following at the bride's home. She is the daughter of Mrs. Joann Hawkins of Streator and the late Phillip M. Glos.

2nd Lt. and Mrs. James Jarocki

GIVEN IN marriage by her grandfather, Joseph Bookler of Villa Park, Valarie stood at the altar with maid of honor Janice Kirkpatrick, Kewanee, and bridesmaids Terry Bryant, Streator; Mrs. Gail Harm, Wausau, Wis.; and Corrine Sidler, Glenview.

The bride's 4-year-old godchild, Lisa Palace of Wheaton, served as her flower girl.

Jim's twin brother, William, was best man, and three of his Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity brothers, Robert Heath, Palatine, Michael Zmuda, Elk Grove Village, and David Parrin, Oak Brook, were groomsmen.

The bridegroom graduated from Fremd High School and then earned a degree in business at the U of I. His bride earned her degree in retailing.

Margaret Marie Gildemeister— John W. Newton

After a honeymoon in Wisconsin, Margaret Marie Gildemeister and John Wayne Newton are making their home in Buffalo Grove.

Married May 22 in First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights, Margaret is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Gildemeister, Arlington Heights, and John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Newton, Hastings, Mich.

The 3 3 p.m. double ring service was followed by a home reception for 85 guests.

MARGARET CHOSE Karen Siman of Arlington Heights as maid of honor, and her sisters, Karen and Linda, and Susan Radcliffe, Arlington Heights, as bridesmaids. Flower girl was her cousin, Katherine Ann Kuhn, 10, Morton Grove.

Best man was Frank Wolfard, Elk Grove Village, and ushers were Tom Algosino, Berkeley, Ill.; Ron Teliszczak, Hanover Park; and Artie Martin, Arlington Heights.

A graduate of Hersey High, Margaret is employed at Marshall Field's in Woodfield, and her bridegroom, a graduate of Hastings High, is with Illinois Bell Telephone. John also served as a corpsman in the Navy.

Plan haircuts

Be safe and don't arrange for a haircut immediately before a big event. Allow enough time for your hair to grow back somewhat, if your hairdresser is the overzealous type, or if you're trying someone new for a haircut.

Nancy C. Julius-Bruce J. Linton

Both traditional vows and personal vows written by the bride and groom were repeated by Nancy Charlene Julius and Bruce Joseph Linton during their wedding May 22 in the Village Church of Northbrook.

Nancy is the daughter of Mrs. Charlotte Julius, Golf, Ill., and the late Harold O. Julius, and Bruce is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Linton, Mount Prospect.

A dinner reception in Thorngate Country Club followed the 4:30 p.m. service.

Serving as Nancy's matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. Victor Tabor of Schaumburg. Bridesmaids were Mrs. James Meyer, Arlington Heights; Mrs. Robert Blakleslee, Oak Park; and the groom's sisters, Mrs. Anthony Orlando, Northfield, and Mrs. Steven Campbell, Mount Prospect.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce J. Linton

LARRY NOBLE, Rolling Meadows, was Bruce's best man, and ushers were Brian Hill, Rolling Meadows; Edward Hauser, Mount Prospect; William Scheib, Chicago; and the bride's brother-in-law, Victor Tabor. The Tabors' son, Andrew, was ring bearer.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Sea Island, Ga., and are now residing in the groom's bachelor apartment in Palatine. In August they will move to Lisle where the groom has begun a position as an associate with a management consultant firm in nearby Oakbrook. The bride is an administrative manager with an interior design and space planning firm in Chicago.

Ask Andy

Venus flytrap won't gobble men

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Burke Knight, 12, of Santa Maria, Calif., for his question: HOW DOES THE VENUS FLYTRAP REPRODUCE?

Most everyone has heard tales of giant meat-eating plants, lurking in darkened jungles just waiting to trap an unwary animal. True, there are plants that are carnivorous, but their prey is confined to the smaller members of the animal world. And none of them is able to handle anything much larger than a good-sized insect.

For the most part, plants use sunlight, air, water and chemicals in the soil to manufacture their food. Not all soils are rich enough in all the proper nutrients, however. Because of this some members of the plant kingdom had to find other ways to supplement their diet. The Venus flytrap is a small plant that grows from 4 to 16 inches tall. Don't bother to search the steamy jungles of Africa or South America to find it though, for its only native habitat is a small area in North and South Carolina. Here it can be found growing in marshy regions where the soil is short of nitrogen, a substance all plants need.

The pale green leaves of this carnivorous plant are broad and paddle-like. Growing from the tip of the leaf is a structure resembling a miniature bear trap complete with spiky edges and a hinge in the center. Centered in each half of the trap are three sensitive trigger hairs. If an insect brushes against one of these trigger hairs nothing happens. Let the unlucky prey brush against more than one, however, and the two sections of the plant close together.

Smaller insects may be able to escape this prison by quickly crawling between the spikes on the edges of the trap. Most insects are too large to escape and the more they struggle, the tighter the trap closes. Special glands in the trap ooze out a digestive enzyme that breaks down the soft parts of the insect to be absorbed by the plant. When the digestive process is complete, the trap reopens, ready for business again.

Flytraps can be reproduced by seeds that grow in the clusters of white flowers it produces. Most generally they are grown from the fleshy bulbs that grow underground. Large bulbs can be divided to form two plants. Flytraps can also be started from leaf cuttings off the old plant.

The Venus flytrap is one of a number of meat-eating plants. Another is the pretty sundew. This plant has small spoon-shaped leaves that are covered with tiny hairlike whiskers. At the tip of each whisker is a drop of glistening moisture. Though it looks harmless and its fragrance is attractive to insects, the sundew is a sticky, gooey trap. And once caught in it, few insects escape.

Andy sends a Student Globe to David Adams, 13, of Portline, Ore., for his question:

WHAT ARE BABY RABBITS CALLED?

Surprisingly, a baby rabbit is called a kit or kitten. The mother is a doe, and the father is a buck. The graceful swan's youngster is a cygnet, and gosling is the name for the young goose. The turkey's little hatchling is a poult, while the kangaroo's tiny hitchhiker is a joey. Shoat, farrow and piglet are the names applied to the young of hogs. Cub is the term given to bear babies, as well as fox and lion babies. And the beaver infant goes by either cub or kit.

Adults of some animal species go by several names, such as the male deer, who may be referred to as a buck, hart or stag. The female deer is a doe, although she may also be called a hind or roe. The young deer is a fawn, but the newborn antelope is a kid. The baby elephant is a calf, as are the young of the giraffe, cow and whale.

TV Hiss

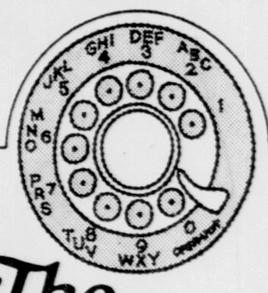

by Ed Landwehr

Phone calls to Landwehr's TV & Appliance Center sometimes relay some startling emergencies. One woman thought there was a snake in her television set. "There's an awful hissing in there," she said.

Like under the bed, a television should be vacuumed out when it gets overly dusty. This dust can cause voltage arcing that gives a hissing sound.

We always clean out TV sets on service at our shop bench or alert folks on home calls about this matter. You'll find that a phone call to 255-0700 brings satisfactory maintenance service — even on emergencies. Try us.

Stop in at 1000 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights and see our fine displays of nationally-advertised TVs and stereos. Service with sales and for years after makes for a bargain.

Christine Loftus, Mt. Prospect
Chris Okon, Arl. Hts.
Otto Roeser, Arl. Hts.

For Today's Question Call 394-1700.

Sims makes it look so easy

Perfect technique in dummy play is something all experts strive to attain. Forty-five years ago no one had it, but Hal Sims came mighty close.

Today's hand shows Hal at work. Most players would simply go down one and complain about their misfortune in the diamond suit. Hal made the hand without any ceremony at all.

East's ace and king of clubs held the first two tricks. He led his last club.

Hal ruffed and promptly cashed all his trumps while discarding a diamond from dummy. West had to make two discards and was smart enough to chuck two hearts.

This didn't do him a bit of good. Hal simply cashed dummy's king and queen of diamonds and ace of hearts. Then he led dummy's last club. Poor West was on lead and had to lead a diamond up to Hal's ace-10.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
